

Plane Passenger Shot Pilot Before Crash, FBI Finds

Took Out Heavy Insurance Before Boarding Airliner

CONCORD, Calif. (AP)—The wreckage to a man who took out an insurance policy in excess of $50,000 on his life just before boarding the plane.

An FBI laboratory check in Washington, the source said, determined that the revolver, a .357 Smith & Wesson Magnum, contained six spent cartridges that had been fired recently.

The source confirmed that a tape recorder found in the wreckage carried the voice of pilot Ernest A. Clark, saying, "My God, I've been shot."

Then came a scream, just before the twin-engine Pacific Air Lines plane went into its dive from a mile up that ended with an explosion in pastureland southeast of Concord.

Other Shootings Suspected

Speculation arose that the gun wielder had lost heavily at the Reno gambling tables.

The FBI did not give the exact amount of machine-dispersed insurance taken out by the owner of the revolver.

Another mystery to be solved was whether the passenger shot only Clark or also shot copilot Raymond E. Andress Jr. and

26 Accused of Corruption in Bay State Quiz

137 Indictments Charge Conspiracy, Bribery, Larceny

BOSTON (AP) — A wholesale batch of indictments has descended on top figures in both major political parties in Massachusetts in a sweeping investigation of corruption in the state government.

A special grand jury returned 137 indictments against 26 persons Friday, charging such crimes as bribery, larceny, requesting bribes and conspiracy.

The list of the accused was topped by House Speaker John F. Thompson, a Democrat from Ludlow, and one of his Republican predecessors, Charles Gibbons.

Legislation Affected

"I have great faith in the integrity of our courts," Thompson said, "and I will be vindicated."

Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke, a Republican, directed presentation of the evidence during the 10 weeks the jury was sitting.

Brooke said suppression of legislation was involved in most of the allegations. He said the legislation would have affected agencies handling small loans.

Also indicted were 10 corporations, including nine small loan companies and 17 of their officials.

Brooke said the defendants will be arraigned as soon as possible.

Named in 31 Indictments

The evidence put before the grand jury was gathered by the State Crime Commission, a body established last year by the legislature. Its membership consists of prominent private citizens of both parties but no current officeholders.

Thompson was accused of requesting and accepting bribes and conspiracy. He was named in 31 indictments covering 1960 through 1962, plus conspiracy from 1954 to date.

Thompson suspended himself as speaker shortly after the indictments were made public. He named as his stand-in Majority Leader John Davoren, a Democrat, "until these charges are determined."

Gibbons, a Republican, was named in 23 indictments charging he accepted bribes in 1961 and 1962. During that time he was state commissioner of administration and finance.

In 1960, Gibbons was the Republican candidate for governor losing to Foster Furcolo who was re-elected to a second two-year term.

GOP Wants Johnson
In Television Debate

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Republicans will demand that President Johnson engage in a nationwide television debate with their presidential candidate, the national GOP chairman said Friday.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York told the Wyoming Republican state convention that the GOP candidate would be in a position to ask Johnson embarrassing questions.

Station Jammed

A surging crowd broke through police lines as he drove in an open car to the railway station.

Similar crowds jammed around the Cairo railway station as Khrushchev arrived to a booming 21-gun salute after his triumphant procession through the delta. Since early morning there were unnumbered thousands in the towns of Damimhour, Bemha and Tamimhour, where his train made brief pauses.

A 21-gun salute boomed and thousands of seamen and dockworkers lining the piers shouted as Khrushchev walked down the gangway.

A barge with top Egyptian officials on board met the Armenian in the harbor. Khrushchev was welcomed by Nasser on shore.

In addition to Soviet officials and dozens of security agents, Khrushchev, 70, was accompanied by his wife, Nina, and their son, Sergei, and daughter, Rada Adzhubel.

Nasser led Khrushchev before radio microphones and introduced the Soviet leader as "a courageous fighter who has dedicated his life to his principles, and who has made peace one of his cherished aims."

Khrushchev, wearing a black tropical suit and black tie, responded with a brief speech, saying the Soviet Union regarded Nasser's "revolution as an important stage in the liberation struggle of the peoples of Africa."

He made a veiled reference to the dispute with Peking by describing the Soviet policy of peaceful coexistence as "truly Leninist-Marxist."

Khrushchev and Nasser drove through downtown Alexandria in an American-built open limousine. Many Egyptians broke through police lines attempting to shake Khrushchev's hand.

Khrushchev smiled and waved his hat.

Aswan Dam Ceremony

Bouquets and flower petals were tossed from balconies and jets flew overhead as the two leaders drove through the city.

The official purpose of the visit is to enable Khrushchev to take part in ceremonies marking the completion of the first stage of the Aswan High Dam.

But the trip has far wider implications.

Tornadoes Cause Extensive Damage in Fox Valley Area

The John Strange Paper Co. was hardest hit in Menasha by Friday night's storm, with damage estimated at $20,000. Debris from the former Strange Paper Co., now used as a warehouse, was blown across the street, damaging the Paper Company. Debris along the north side of Strange Paper Co. is shown. A roof section also was damaged and it was necessary to shut down the 145-inch paper machine while all crews were called in to repair damage.

9 Die, Huge Property Loss As Twister Hits Michigan

82 Hospitalized, at Least 200 Persons Given Treatment

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — A killer tornado slammed across southeastern Michigan Friday, strewing death, injury and property damage estimated in the millions in its path.

State police said at least nine persons were known dead in nearby Chesterfield Township, which bore the brunt of the death-dealing twister. Rescue workers feared other victims may be found in rubble.

Gov. George Romney flew over the devastated area Friday night. He estimated property damage "could run into the millions."

Two Mount Clemens hospitals reported 82 persons were admitted for treatment. At least 200 others were treated and released.

The tornado which roared through a residential area far from Selfridge Air Force Base was one of three tornadoes which touched down in southeastern Michigan. A second struck at Luna Pier, about 60 miles from here, and the third touched down between Pontiac and Lake Orion in Oakland county.

The tornado which struck Chesterfield Township was described as roaring like a giant vacuum cleaner. The twister ripped through an area about two miles long and three-quarters of a mile long.

Estimates of the numbers of homes destroyed ranged from 50 to 200.

Another tornado struck at Luna Pier, about 60 miles from the Mount Clemens area, injuring at least one person. A funnel also dipped into southeastern Monroe County and flattened a barn there. It is across the county from Luna Pier.

A tornado which hit between Pontiac and Lake Orion in Oakland County, 30 miles from the Detroit area, smashed homes and tore down trees and power lines.

Romney took a helicopter flight over the devastated area. On his return, he told Almadstad, "There have been homes flattened, there have been homes gutted, and there have been homes knocked to their foundations. We are here to give you all the help we can give you. Funds will come through later."

Storms Strike Many Regions In Wisconsin

Buildings Razed, Trees and Power Poles Torn Down

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A series of violent storms, including several tornadoes, raced through much of Wisconsin Friday night, leveling barns, felling trees and utility poles and causing widespread damage to many buildings.

No serious injuries were reported despite high winds, heavy rain, hail and lightning. The tornadoes were reported in Vernon, Richland, Adams, Wau-paca and Marathon counties.

Other areas of western, central and southeastern portions of the state were hit hard by severe thunderstorms. Some sectors still were adding up damage from storms earlier this week when they were hit again.

Power Lines Down

One tornado moved across the Mississippi River and touched down in Vernon County, cutting a path of destruction from Readstown along Highway 131 to Viola near the Richland County line. Then the tornado ripped into Richland County, knocking down trees and power lines.

Power lines were felled, disrupting electrical service, and many trees were uprooted or snapped in half in Vernon County. A barn was destroyed, a silo toppled and a house damaged on the Junior Miller farm near Viola.

A garage and a chicken coop on the nearby Ed Baker farm were lifted into the air and smashed down. An old barn caved in and a new addition was damaged on the Baker farm.

Barn Destroyed

In the same sector, a barn on the Gerald Parker farm was knocked down. Cattle DRD trapped in wreckage.

Barns on the Lynford Looker and Vaughn Hornby farms near West Limes were destroyed.

In Adams County, a barn on the Arlie Van Wei farm 14 miles south of Adams was destroyed. Some of the 40 head of cattle in the barn were killed as hay was blown on to Highway 13, disrupting traffic. Power lines and trees in the area were knocked down.

The same twister also destroyed a summer cabin and

Northeast Side of Neenah, Southeast Appleton and Clintonville Hit Hardest

BY DICK LYNEIS

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Violent weather, including scattered tornadoes, battered the Fox Valley area early Friday night, causing severe damage.

The tornadoes caused the most havoc on Neenah's northeast side, in the southeast corner of Appleton, and in the Clintonville area. The death of a power foreman at the Interlake Mill of Consolidated Papers, Inc., Appleton, may have resulted from the storm.

Several eyewitness accounts of the rising and dipping funnel cloud came from the Clintonville area. There were no actual reports of anyone seeing the twister in the Neenah-Appleton area, but John McLean, of the Wisconsin - Michigan Power Co., said "the damage was in a very definite path on a line from the Fox Point Shopping Center on Neenah's northeast side to the Calumet Street power substation in southeast Appleton."

Course of Storm

McLean said the line went through Neenah, past the John Point area blocked off early this morning to prevent looting, across the northwest tip of Lake Winnebago, through the Waverly Beach area and toward southeast Appleton.

"Damage was confined to a narrow area in a path along and severely damaged both sides of this line," he said.

Some Neenah streets where damage was particularly heavy were practically uncountable. Five were reported down in the Laurel Court, Meadow Lane, Clintonville area, and at least 10 were flattened southeast of Kaukauna.

The power foreman at Interlake who died was Joseph A. Kuenz, 62, 726 W. Eighth St. Kuenz collapsed and died while working at the mill about 8:15 p.m.

The mill had been without power for nearly an hour and Kuenz was working to start paper machines which had been stopped. The plant had been in darkness during the storm.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard Kemps said Kuenz was given artificial respiration and was rushed to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Neenah Injuries

Neenah police reported several accounts of persons with minor injuries caused by the storm. A woman employee of the Strange company was treated for cuts received from flying glass.

Most extensive damage apparently was at Fox Point Shopping center where windows were blown in and roof sections were blown off. An unoccupied gasoline station was virtually demolished. Eight-inch concrete blocks from the station were scattered throughout the shopping center's parking lot.

Businesses there hit hardest were the Rexall Drug Store and Gunderson Cleaners. Windows were blown in and there was considerable rain damage. Other shopping center stores reporting damage were the J. C. Penney Co., National Food Store, The Kresge Co., the House of Beauty,

Words often misused: Remember that SUSPECT is the verb, and SUSPICION is the noun. Do not say, "I suspicioned that his claim was false." Say, "I suspected that his claim was false."

Often mispronounced: Trochee (medical label). Pronounce tree-kee, accent on first syllable.

Often misspelled: Parahim, one "r" and two "h"s.

Synonyms: Parsimony, distiction, explicitness.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

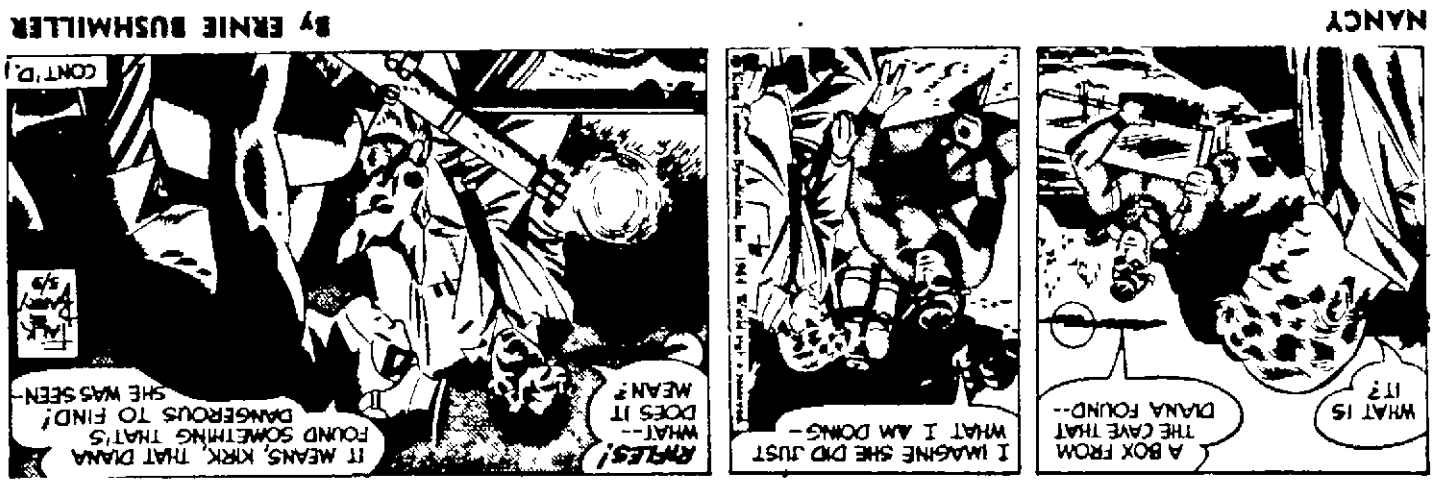

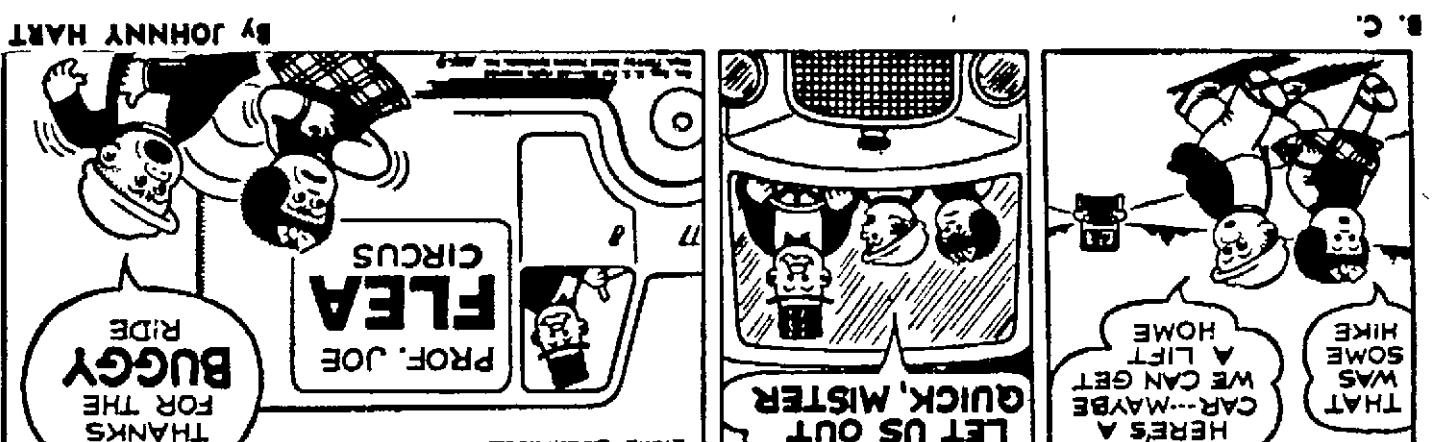

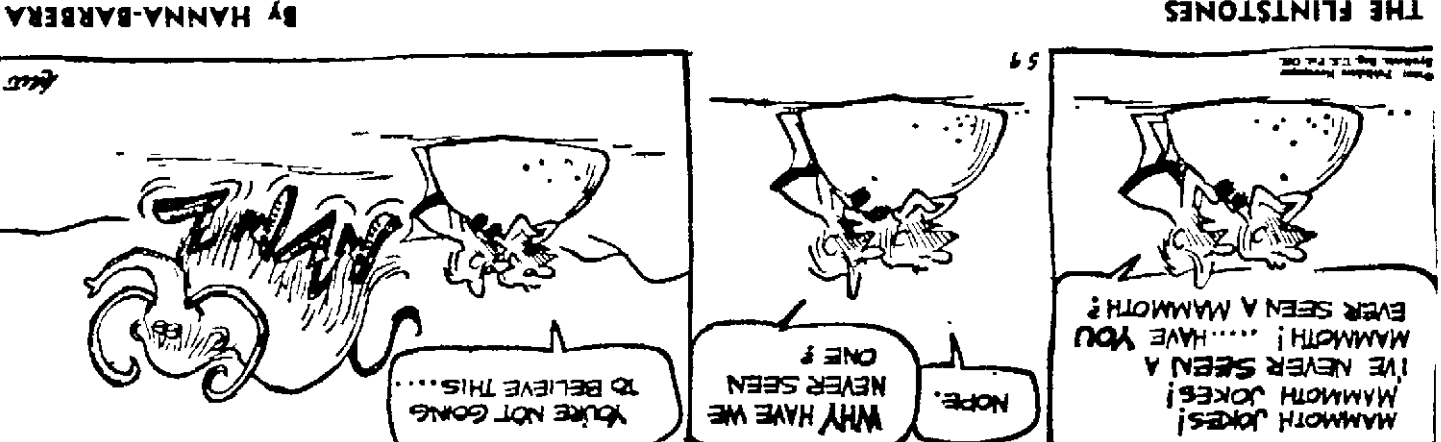

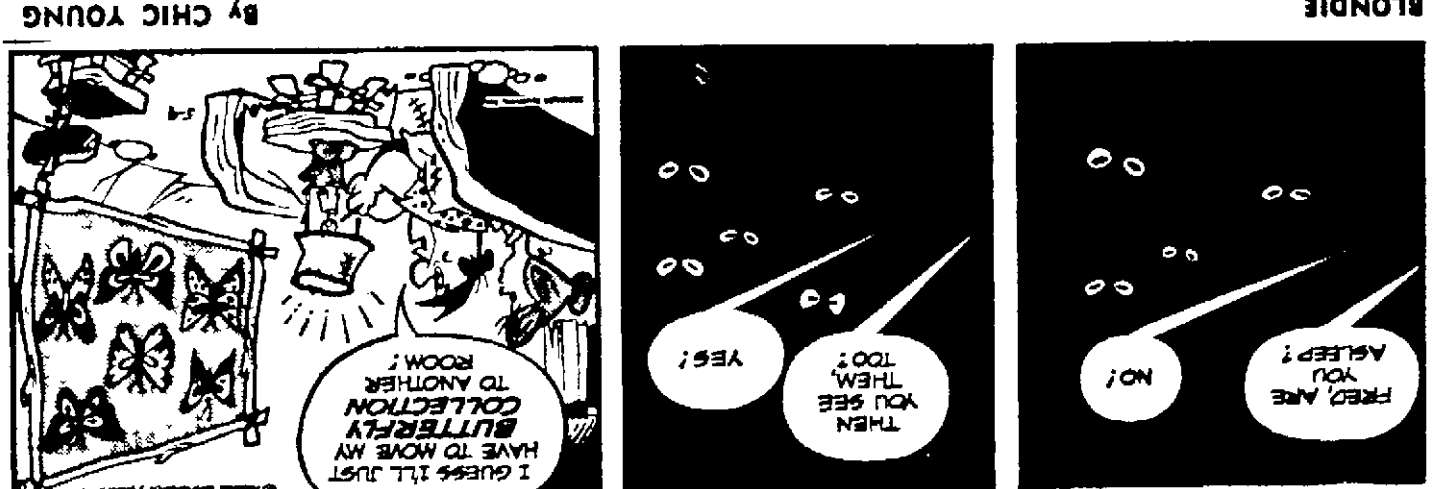

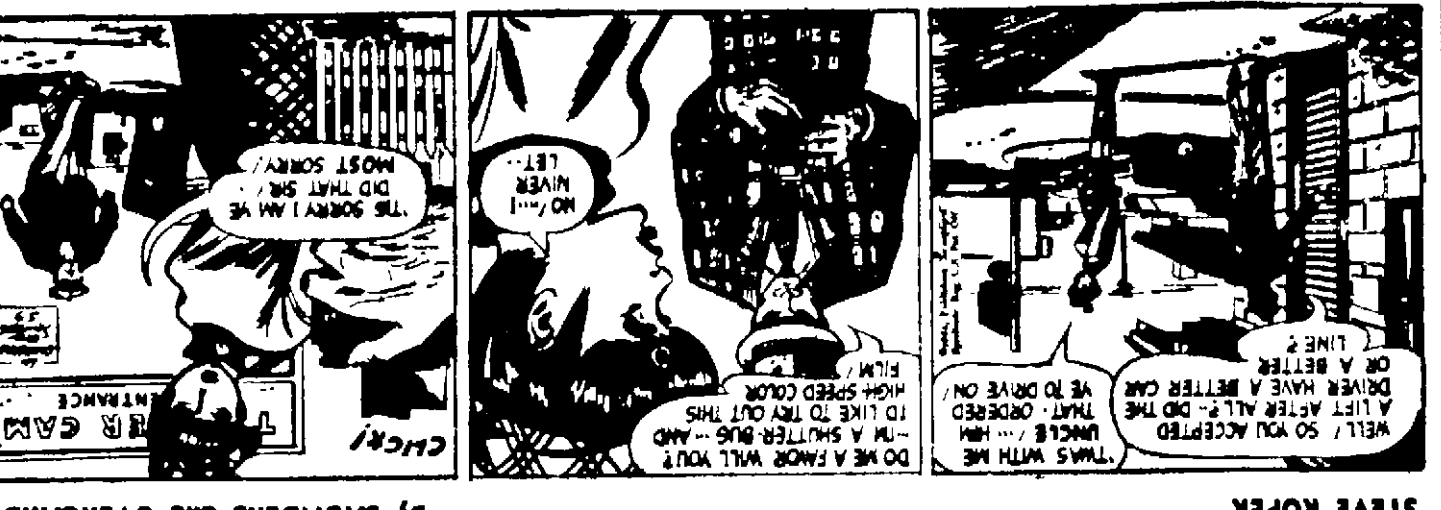

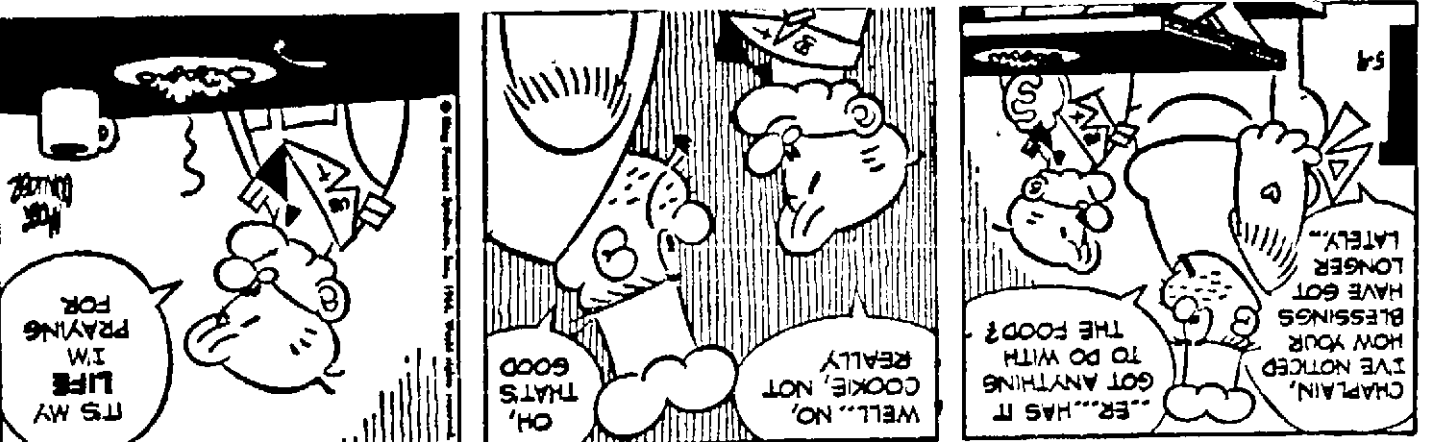

Today's word: Expelive. something added merely as a filing, as an extra word, phrase, or syllable, also, an oath or exclamation. "He turned to fling an unprintable expelive over his shoulder."

Young Hobby Club

A Good Rainy Day Project

BY CAPPY DICK

The next time it rains and you stay indoors, gather together a few fresh vegetables and make a zoo out of them. Use toothpicks and pipe cleaners for the legs of the animals.

A hummingbird, hippopotamus can easily be made from a big red potato, lumpy and awkward looking. A carrot with the green top left on can be turned into a horse, the leafy top serving as its tail.

A turnip will become a piggy pig and a long-necked crane can be made from a green onion.

A very small head of lettuce on a fork will become a bird.

Use toothpicks for animal legs.

LAWN-BOY FINGER-TIP MOWING EASE

Small, white radishes make little white mice with long tails on for whiskers. A potato with a bit of celery leaf attached to the top with a toothpick makes a mouse. The celery leaf serves as the antlers.

There are many other possibilities after you have started experimenting. In an hour's time you can have a good-sized vegetable zoo to show to your friends.

Mental Health Directory for Outagamie Being Completed

Volume Will Outline Agencies, Services Available in County

A comprehensive "Directory of Mental Health and Related Services of Outagamie County" is being completed by the Outagamie County Mental Health Association.

The directory, believed to be the first of its kind in the county, surveys agencies in the county which provide mental health or related services, briefly outlines their purposes and activities, and lists other needs.

The booklets will be distributed by mid-May to all organizations which require information, agencies, doctors and hospitals for use as resource material.

Publication of the directory coincides with Mental Health Month, being observed in May, and the association's annual fund drive during the first two weeks of May.

Sparked By Survey

Preparation of the booklet grew out of a survey made for a meeting in Appleton last November in cooperation with the Wisconsin mental health advisory committee and Outagamie, Calumet and Winnebago counties. The purpose of the meeting was to work out a statewide comprehensive mental health planning program involving both the state and the counties, to highlight existing mental health facilities and project the need for other facilities.

Outagamie County Mental Health Association was host to this meeting and was instrumental in gathering information on county resources in the field of mental health. This material is drawn together in the new directory.

Kenneth R. Venderbush is editor of the directory, assisted by Mrs. Kyle Ward Jr., chairman of the November meeting, and Mrs. Carl P. Wellman.

Lists 7 Categories

The directory surveys services available and needs in seven categories—mental health, handicapped and retarded, related agencies and services, public health and nursing, aged, courts and law enforcement, and Outagamie County.

Mental health services are provided by the Outagamie County Mental Health Association, the Community Guidance Center for Outagamie County, St. Elizabeth Hospital, the Outagamie County Hospital, and psychotherapists in private practice.

Still needed, the booklet states, are a family service agency for counseling, an aftercare social worker to provide follow-up services for patients released from hospitals, First Friends, a volunteer organization of persons willing to help bridge the gap between institution and society, and clubs which provide recreational facilities and social programs to bring persons together and give them the support of community understanding.

Other Services

Services for the handicapped and retarded are provided by the Outagamie County Council for Retarded Children Inc., Fox Valley Division; Fox Valley Workshop Inc.; rehabilitation services through the Appleton Vocational and Adult School, Work Adjustment Services Inc. of Winnebago County, which will serve Outagamie County as long as the work load permits; Morgan School, Robert Plamann School, New Hope Nursery.

Still needed, according to the directory, are a day care center for mentally handicapped adults and a wider scope of training and job opportunities. The Mental Health Association is now working on establishment of a day care center.

Related agencies and services include the Appleton Apostolate, the Salvation Army, Children's Service Society of Wisconsin, Lutheran Welfare Services of Wisconsin, the Outagamie County Chapter of the American Red Cross, the clergy, the Appleton public school guidance department and counseling services at Lawrence College. An occupational therapy program will be added at Lawrence next year and students will work with local mental health facilities.

Public Services

Public health and nursing services include the Appleton health department, the Outagamie County public health service and the Visiting Nurse Association.

Services for the aged include the Appleton City Home, Golden Age Home, five private nursing homes, Riverview General Hospital, New London Community Hospital and the Appleton Golden Age Club.

Courts and law enforcement agencies include the Appleton police department, the Outagamie County sheriff, and the State Department of Public Welfare, Division of Corrections. The directory also lists resources available to the courts and corrections officers, including state and county hospitals.

County services include the Department of Public Welfare, the county hospital and Golden Age Home, the Community Guidance Center and Plamann School. Still needed, the booklet says, is a county health department.

2 Juniors at Lawrence to Give Recital

Music for piano and oboe will be offered by Lawrence Conservatory juniors Gay Pearson and Ellen Larson in a recital at 8:15 p.m. Monday, in Harper Hall, Music-Drama Center.

Miss Pearson, Newbury, Mass., is a student of Theodore Rehl, assistant professor of music. Miss Larson, associate professor of music. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frans G. Larson, 540 Outagamie Court.

Miss Pearson, also a violinist, has been a member of the Lawrence Symphony Orchestra for three years. She has been active as a piano accompanist in several student solo recitals. As a sophomore, she was seen in the Lawrence Opera Theatre production of "Gianni Schicchi." That year she also was a crew member for a major Lawrence College Theatre production. Miss Pearson has been on the announcing and writing staff of WLFM, the student-operated FM radio station.

Miss Larson transferred to Lawrence this year from Northwestern University. She has been a member of the Lawrence Symphony Orchestra, and has been heard in several smaller woodwind ensembles. In April she was seen on a Channel 5 "Perspective" telecast in a performance of a Beethoven trio for two oboes and English horn. Locally, she has played with the Appleton City Band for several seasons. In April she participated in the "Miss Appleton" pageant, displaying her musical skills in the talent contest.

Miss Larson will be assisted by pianist Donna Speitz, a conservatory junior from Madison. Both of the recitalists will perform literature from a variety of historical musical sources. Their complete program is shown below:

County GOP to Have Voice in Party Platform

Outagamie Leader Says Questionnaire Will Be Distributed

Outagamie County citizens will have an opportunity to tell the national Republican Party what they want included in the 1964 GOP platform, Harve Wolfe, 536 W. Lindbergh, County Republican chairman said today.

A questionnaire, which is being distributed nationally, will be given out in Outagamie County starting Saturday when County YGOP members hand them out at their booth at the Good Neighbor Fair at Valley Fair Shopping Center.

In addition, Wolfe has named Mrs. Orville Marnacha as distribution chairman in Seymour; Robert Schneider in Hortonville; and Arthur Lauer in Kaukauna.

Opening Step

The national GOP's "party to people forum," the questionnaire is a self-mailer, addressed to the Republican Platform Committee in Washington, D. C. Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Marshfield, Wis. is chairman of the committee.

The five questions included in the mailing are:

1. What do you believe to be the most important problems facing us as Americans today?
2. Why do you believe these problems are important?
3. What steps should be taken by our government to deal with these problems?
4. What positions do you suggest the Republican Party take to better fulfill its responsibilities to the American people?
5. Do you think of yourself as a Republican, a Democrat, an Independent, or what?

Explaining the importance of the forum, Wolfe said, "The people must be heard," and this huge sampling of the voting public is only one of many ways in which the Republican Party is working to determine and act on their very real needs and concerns." Questionnaires also may be obtained from Wolfe.

Capuchin Priest From Freedom Will Celebrate Solemn Mass

The Rev. Evan (Ronald) Smith, OFM Cap., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith, rural route 1, Kaukauna, will celebrate his first solemn mass at 10 a.m. May 17 in St. Nicholas Church, Freedom.

The Rev. Hilary Zach, OFM Cap., master of novices at St. Felix Friary, Huntington, Ind., will preach the sermon. There will be solemn benediction at 2 p.m. A reception will be held in the church hall from 2:30 to 5 p.m. First priestly

Appleton Noon Optimist Club bicycle safety chairmen and traffic officials of the police department discuss safety features to look for in the bicycle safety check next week. Five nights have been set aside at five schools to test youthful riders' skill on bicycles before summer vacation. Optimist Committee chairmen, from left, are Dr. Donald Garelick, Roy F. Valitichke II, Capt. John Gosch, and Traffic Sgt. Vernal Remter. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Optimists Slate Annual Bicycle Safety Tests

Appleton's Noon Optimist Club has scheduled its annual bicycle inspection for school children at five locations May 11-19.

The program is designed to teach youthful riders rules of traffic and safety while riding bicycles on city streets.

Tests include an oral examination of safety rules and an "on the road" test where cyclists negotiate an obstacle course, demonstrate turn signals, ability to maintain balance, stopping and riding a straight line.

Locations for the inspections, from 4 to 6 p.m. daily, are May 11, Franklin; May 12, McKinley; May 13, Edison; May 18, Lincoln, and May 19, Jefferson.

Police traffic officers are co-operating with the club at each inspection site. Sgt. Vernal Remter, Appleton traffic police, has set up courses at the schools. Physical Education Coordinator William Pickett of Appleton school system also is working with the safety program.

Optimist chairmen are Dr. Donald Garelick and Roy F. Valitichke II.

Lawrence Coeds to Share New Law, which will Harper Recital

Lawrence Conservatory seniors Mary Oswald and Laurie Fyvie will share a public recital for piano and bassoon at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, in Harper Hall, Music-Drama Center.

Miss Oswald, Three Lakes, studies with Clyde Duncan, associate professor of music. She is a Bachelor of Music candidate majoring in piano pedagogy.

Miss Fyvie, Manitowish, is a student of Fred G. Schroeder, associate professor of music. She also is a Bachelor of Music candidate with a music education major.

Miss Oswald has been particularly active in Lawrence music ensembles. She has played violin with the Symphony Orchestra for four seasons, and was a Little Symphony member in her sophomore and senior years. She also sang with the Women's chorus as a sophomore, and with the Concert Choir in her senior year. In her second and third years at Lawrence, she participated in the Choral Society's "Messiah" presentations.

Other Activities

As a freshman, Miss Oswald was named to Sigma, women's honorary society. She also is a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, national professional music sorority, and corresponding secretary of the local chapter.

Miss Fyvie has been associated with Lawrence instrumental ensembles throughout her college career. She has been a Concert Band member for four years, and a Symphony Orchestra member for three seasons. She also played with the Chamber Orchestra this year and sang with the Concert Choir a year ago.

She has played at various times with area ensembles including the Manitowish Civic Orchestra and Ripon College Band. She was heard last December in a performance of the Burrill Phillips "Concert Piece for Basso and Strings" with the Neenah High School Orchestra in Neenah and at a mid-west band clinic in Chicago.

Award Winner

In January Miss Fyvie was named winner of the Green Bay Symphony Orchestra's Young Wisconsin Artist Competition. Last month she appeared with the orchestra as guest soloist performing the Mozart bassoon concerto. Also a member of Sigma Alpha Iota.

Junior High Issues Yearbook

KIMBERLY — The John R. Ge.ritts Junior High School has distributed the school's first yearbook, "Krusader," to shared and full time students.

The 36-page book is patterned after a regular high school annual, but contains less features. Opening pages have pictures of John R. Ge.ritts, after whom the school is named, for his service as superintendent and school principal until his death in 1962 and the late President John F. Kennedy.

Also included are statements and pictures of Ray Hamann, superintendent of schools, and James Koehn, principal. Individual pictures of seventh through ninth grade students are shown together with pictures of school activities including athletics. Other pages are devoted to the school board, school secretary and service personnel.

Plan New Code For County Mental Units

Hospitals Will Get 60 Per Cent of Cost Returned From State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state division of mental hygiene is preparing the first steps for promulgation of a new code of standards for county mental hospitals under a new state law which sponsors a claim will bring a new era in county hospital mental patient care and treatment.

Dr. L. J. Ganser, chief of the state mental hygiene service, noted that the new financial aid provisions under state law will become effective on July 1.

Available without further state or local government action will be a new scale of financial support offering 60 per cent of individual hospital cost reimbursement from state funds. That system will replace the present system which provides aids figured at an average of 50 per cent of the state-wide per capita county institution operating costs.

Expected to become operative somewhat more slowly is the so-called treatment plan in the new law, which will provide incentive financing for the county institutions for a direct up-grading of their staffs and facilities for the care of mentally ill patients.

The new schedule of support is a generous one, in Wisconsin experience.

In effect, a county hospital which conforms to the standards yet to be prescribed, will be offered 80 per cent of patient cost reimbursement for the first three months of the patient's hospitalization, 75 per cent for

Appleton High School Ready to Graduate

More Than 500 Seniors

Plans for commencement of more than 500 seniors at Appleton High School are in progress. Administrators and the 20 senior homeroom advisers oversee all aspects of senior activities throughout the year and all graduation preparations.

Committee assignments for the senior sponsors include announcements, Richard Emmanuel; caps and gowns, Miss Mary O'Leary and Mrs. Ellen Goolbsbey; decorations, Harold Carlson; diplomas, Charles Scribner and Robert Hurlbutt; processional and seating, Herbert Wetlak, Edward Flynn and Eugene Vanden Heuvel; program, Miss Marjorie Williams; publicity, Mrs. Alan Stoner; speakers, Mark Seng and Barry Bauckes; stage, Jack Burroughs; tickets, Roger Kerstner; ushers, Kurt Regling; and voting, Emmett Hoks and Charles Hoehn.

G. A. Ediger, chairman of all senior activities, co-ordinates committee activities. Graduation will be June 4.

The second quarter, 70 per cent for the third three-month period, and 65 per cent for the last quarter. Such incentives are expected to encourage counties to strengthen their care facilities, to the end that the average stay of patients may be shortened.

The state hospitals have succeeded in recent years in dramatically reducing the time of confinement of the average patient, through new therapy and expanded staffs, and thus have been able to stabilize their average daily populations in spite of a considerable increase in the rate of admissions.

STAR SPANGLED HISTORY OF U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

How they've served America and Americans for 23 years

May 1, 1941—The President buys the first Series E Savings Bond. Thousands of Americans follow his lead.

1943—Everybody's buying Bonds and promoting them. By the end of the year, Americans own $16 billion worth.

1945—War ends. Production turns to consumer goods. Savers cash Bonds for things they want—and then keep right on saving.

1948—The "New Look" is in, but U. S. Savings Bonds are an established style. E Bond holdings now top $32 billion.

1952—Fighting continues in Korea. Bonds help defend freedom again. Series E Bond introduced as companion to E Bond.

1957—Cars sport fins, Sputnik orbits, Braves win World Series, savings in E and H Bonds top the $41 billion mark.

1960—July 4, the U. S. flag adds its 50th star. Bond-buying Americans hitch their wagons to all 50 of them.

May 1, 1964—The Savings Bond program is 23 years old. Americans now own over $47 billion in Bonds—a record.

Two Pulitzer Plays On Riverside Program

Neenah Summer Theater Has Ambitious
Plans; to Open With 'Death of Salesman'

BY JINGO
Fox Cities theatergoers will be able to taste two Pulitzer Prize winning plays of the past during the summer season. They are "Harvey" by Mary Chase, the 1945 winner and "Death of a Salesman" by Arthur Miller, the 1949 winner. Both dramas will be staged by the Riverside Players of Neenah.

A check of our reference books here turned up the incredible information that "Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams on Attie Theatre's agenda was not a prize winner, although Williams' two prize winners are unlikely to shine any brighter than this sensitive portrait on the pages of history.

"Death of a Salesman" will open the Riverside season July 9 and "Harvey" will follow on July 30. The season will close in Neenah with the ambitious "My Fair Lady" for a two-weekend run that opens Aug. 20.

Because of the difficulties inherent in the searching roles of the Miller masterpiece, Kenneth Anderson, who will direct it, has called for special tryouts from 1 to 4 p.m. next Saturday at Neenah High School to give the actors chosen as the leads additional time to work on their roles.

The choice of "Death of a Salesman" and "Glass Menagerie" by Fox Cities community theaters gives area theatergoers a chance to compare the work of two of America's theatrical giants. Both works are major ones for Miller and Williams, although the Williams piece cannot be considered as characteristically.

Fine Dramatists
There is little argument that Williams and Miller represent the class of contemporary American dramatists despite the fact that both have run onto pretty rough shoals in their latest efforts.

Of the two, Jingo feels Arthur Miller has the stronger hold on theatrical immortality. Especially in "Death of a Salesman" Miller transcended the time restrictions of the stage and mastered — in much the way the composer masters changing and recurring themes — the flashback without disorienting the forward sweep of his exposition.

In "Menagerie" Williams proved that he could handle "healthy" subjects as well as "sick" ones. It is an interesting sidelight, perhaps, that Williams is removing this tender, sensitive piece of writing from the stage after this year. Is it because his other works jar sickeningly against its sensitivity?

Without Peer
Regardless of the sewage sweepings with which he has reaped the major bulk of his Second in the Shakespearean Film series at the Appleton Theater is "Henry V," in which Sir Laurence Olivier portrays the king. This is a scene from the movie that starts at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Gangrene Prevention Calls for Simple Rules

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. should provide protection both

Yesterday we discussed gangrene and the problem it poses for people with diabetes. The signs of a beginning case, the great danger of this affliction, the reasons for its starting.

Today I'll concentrate on ways to prevent it from getting even a start.

The first rule is to keep diabetes under control. Don't cheat on your diet or other treatment methods. Maybe you can, most of the time. But it's like excessive speeding in your car or bluffing at poker. When you get in trouble, it's bad!

Other rules:
Strict cleanliness pays off. Don't walk around (even just in the bathroom) barefoot, or in stocking feet, or with soft, cloth slippers. Stubbing your toe can cause a small wound, and a small wound can start gangrene in an older person with diabetes.

Proper Shoes
Wear shoes that fit. They should be comfortable, and pun intended, because this is serious.)

If your feet are excessively moist, look out, because such a condition can cause cracks in the skin. It is helpful, if you have this trouble, to use a bland foot powder. You may need to change socks an extra time per day.

Callus Treatment
Corns and calluses should be treated by your doctor or by a podiatrist because a small infection, to you, is more than ordinarily dangerous.
You may use plain corn pads, but not the medicated ones. If overlapping toes cause irritation, use bits of cotton wool or lamb's wool as a pad between them.
Avoid hot or cold foot baths. This is more important than most people realize, until they get into trouble, because with circulation impaired you may also have a poor sense of heat or cold. So a too-hot or too-cold foot bath can cause trouble before you realize it.
Some people use white or light-colored socks. I don't think the color is important, except that light colors better show any bleeding or drainage from a sore place, so you notice it sooner.

Antiseptics Useful
For small wounds, antiseptics are very important and useful. The safest is rubbing alcohol. Fresh peroxide is good, too. Avoid iodine; it can be irritating. Decidedly avoid anything with phenol (carbolic acid). It may be a good germ killer but it is also too strong, and can be an irritant.
Watch out for fungus infection — athlete's foot. This is an absolute rule. Such an infection, ordinarily annoying but not serious, can (and will) cause cracks in the skin where other infections can get a foothold. (No

Student Guidance Program Includes Tour at Chilton

Students from 68 high schools in east-central Wisconsin interested in engineering have been invited to participate in a student guidance program sponsored by the American Society of Tool & Manufacturing Engineers, Fond du Lac Chapter, on Tuesday.

The program will be presented at Chilton and New Holstein. A tour through the Aluminum Specialty Company plant at Chilton from 1 to 3 p.m. is expected to involve about 225 students and instructors. They will be from schools in the area including Sheboygan, Manitowish and Green Bay to the north, the Clintonville area to the west and south to West Bend.

A program and dinner from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Altona Supper Club, New Holstein, will follow the tour.

M. H. Birk, executive vice president of Aluminum Specialty, and A. R. Tresselt, director of engineering, will speak. B. C. Grall, the society's chairman, will welcome the group and C. S. Stelios of Aluminum Specialty will act as master of ceremonies.

chlorophyll tablets (for combating bad breath) perfectly safe? L. K.

Yes. I have never heard of any harmful effects.

Note to E.M.M.: Carcinoma is a general term meaning any of several varieties of malignant growths — growths which unless checked or removed continue to spread until they destroy one's health and cause death.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all readers' mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Friends. During the teen years a girl is trying hard to become a full-fledged member of her own generation. It therefore becomes terribly important to her that she have the approval of her friends. She makes every effort to dress like, talk like and be like the other girls. She goes to great lengths to win the approval of the boys in her "set." A wise mother understands these things and doesn't try too hard to keep the teen-ager too close to her.

H. F. Fredlund, Nekoosa Traffic Manager to Retire

Henry F. Fredlund, traffic manager for 26 years at Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Company, a leading producer of business, printing, and converting papers, retired May 1.

Police Chase in City Ends With Two-Car Crash

Four Hospitalized; Police Had Tried To Stop Vehicle

A high speed police chase through city streets which started when a squad car driver attempted to stop a car with loud mufflers ended early Friday in a two-car accident which left four persons hospitalized.

Injured and taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by Lindy's Ambulance Service were Jane Westphal, and LaVonne Schultz, both 21 and both of 224 E. Washington St., in one car, and Dennis Erdman, 22, 4022 W. Capitol Drive, and Gene Wolf, 21, 1626 N. Appleton St., in the car being chased by police.

Miss Westphal received cuts to the forehead and leg, Miss Schultz had internal injuries, Erdman had cuts and bumps and Wolf received severe cuts to the face and head. All but Miss Westphal were thrown from their cars after the collision.

Police Account

Police gave this account of the accident: A squad car driver began following the car operated by Erdman on E. Randall Street after the police noticed the car had loud mufflers. The driver refused to stop when police began flashing a red light.

The cars turned right on Union Street, then left onto Brewster. The police car began using its siren.

Headed South

The Westphal car was being driven south on N. Oneida Street when the Erdman car reached the intersection of E. Brewster and N. Oneida streets.

After the impact, the Westphal car struck a telephone pole, shattering it at its base, skidded across a lawn at 1427 N. Oneida St., and crashed into a house breaking a basement window.

Two off-duty policemen who lived in the neighborhood and the two policemen in the squad car gave emergency first aid to the four injured persons before the two ambulances arrived. All four are listed in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Utility Company Official Talks To Brillion C of C

BRILLION — Harold Olson, Wisconsin Public Service Corporation official, spoke on industrial development Tuesday at the Brillion Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Oliver Wordell reported on progress in obtaining a physician for Brillion. A review of the "Welcome Neighbors" promotion planned June 12-13 headed the agenda.

There will be carnival rides, a band concert Friday night, June 12, a parade Saturday, June 13, at 2:30 p.m. and a street dance at night. The event will be climaxed by the crowning of a queen. ## It's No Joke, Son!

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Don't drink magazine pages — it can kill you.

That's right, friends, a few snorts of a certain magazine and you may have had it... forever.

And, it might be apropos at this point to say the writer is stone sober.

Taking it from there, we offer the free advice not to try the latest "drink" which has been banned by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA).

The FDA, through the Appleton Health Department, says two pages of the August issue of the magazine are "loaded."

"As a joke" the magazine asked its readers to dissolve the pages — 15 and 16 to be exact — in methyl alcohol and drink the liquid.

Needless to say the joke has backfired. The FDA and health authorities say drinking the weird potion could blind a person or make him or her "stiff."

Health commissioners throughout Wisconsin are placing a ban on the magazine's August "masterpiece."

To make sure the so-called joke isn't on YOU the FDA has issued a nationwide warning against following deadly directions the magazine gave on the two pages.

The magazine said that "in cooperation with a famous university" it was inviting the reader to test his or her "mirageability."

It said ink used in printing the issue was mixed with "diphenylchloroamyl - 2 - benzozate, a powerful hallucinogen."

After drinking the solution, one is supposed to see things, according to the authors. They didn't say for how long.

Ask for Impressions

The reader was asked to send impressions, if any, to the magazine. The whole gimmick was for hallucinogenics.

The publishing company brewed its concoction out of Darby, Conn.

"They did not know what methyl alcohol was, did not know it was wood alcohol and did not know it was capable of causing blindness or death," said the FDA.

When called on the carpet by federal authorities, editors of the magazine said the instructions were intended as a joke.

That's a joke, son?

Anyway, you won't find copies of the magazine in Appleton and should anyone try importing same — they will be banned by city health officials.

A high-ranking FDA official emphasized that methyl alcohol is a very poisonous substance, first effect of which is blindness. Even small quantities are capable of causing death.

The moral of the story: Don't drink magazines because you might have the page marked "The End."

Charlie Tells Drama Behind News Story

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Poor reader! You are too often "left out" of the thrilling events which sometimes surround the gathering of a news story. We assemble our facts, present them to you, but seldom tell you the interesting things that happen en route.

For today, you may come behind the scene with me in the development of a news story which had me quivering.

It began about six months ago. An ebullient friend, Lloyd Derus, called me:

"Charlie, there's a fine old concert piano at George's Steak House in Appleton. I hear it once belonged to Lawrence College and that it's very old. I thought it might be a story if you'd care to dig for it."

Well, reader, you know. An old piano? I was only half interested.

I "sat on the story" for a few weeks. Then I happened to drop into George's Steak House and I remembered Lloyd's call. I took a quick look at the old instrument and I had to agree that it was interesting. Nevertheless, the proprietor wasn't in that day and nobody on the staff could help me. So I sat on the story for a few more weeks.

Then came a note from the boss. Had I heard, he asked, about a very old piano at George's Steak House? Might make an interesting story!

This is the kind of time I really move. I gathered up Lloyd Derus and together we went to George's to talk to the owner. He is D. J. Guyon, better known as "Dod" (pronounced "Dode"). Dod had purchased the steak house three years ago from George Fiedler. The piano was part of the deal.

Remembered Facts

Dod remembered some facts: The piano, he thought, was built in 1884 (it was). It is made of rosewood, is nine feet long, and a concert grand made by Steinway. It had not been owned by Lawrence College; it was owned once by the Appleton Public Schools.

Dod remembered that one of his patrons, I. L. Heiberg of Menasha, had been interested enough to start a research on it. Heiberg had sent a letter to Dod and informed him of what he had discovered. But, too bad! The letter was missing.

I contacted Mr. Heiberg. Yes, he had researched the piano. He had written to Steinway and Steinway explained it was not their policy to reveal the names of early buyers of their instruments. But Heiberg had checked the piano back to the Heid Music Co. And also the Appleton public school system had once owned it.

Checked Schools

I checked the public schools. No information was available; nobody remembered it. (Later research showed that the school system obtained the piano, nobody knows where, in 1939).

Now I called on Peter Heid of the Heid Music Company. I was new on the right track but my big thrill was coming later.

Heid was cooperative and informative. Yes, he remembered the instrument. He had seen it on the stage of the high school. Kids were jumping on it, dancing on it, abusing it. It was practically "junk," he said. He purchased it (for $100).

Piano Refurbished

All summer long his staff worked on it, especially L. A. Bieritz. Next Heid contracted with a fine cabinet maker, Al Engel, to have a bar-top made for the piano. To refurbish it, Heid spent, he said, hundreds of dollars.

Heid had remembered something when he was in the armed forces. He had played in the Army band led by Wayne King, then U. S. Army major. While in the service, Heid had visited the Sherman Hotel (which you will soon discover was a quaint coincidence). At the Sherman, Heid had observed a "sing-along" piano. Customers sat around it and sang along with the pianist. Heid thought the idea had a potential for Appleton.

With the idea and the refurbished concert grand, he went to George Fiedler and talked him into buying it and using it as a source of fine dinner music and a "sing-along" device. Cost to George: $750. It may well be the first such piano bar ever put into use in Wisconsin. The year was 1952.

Big Thrill

Hoping that, as a dealer in Steinway pianos, Heid could help us break the Steinway rule not to reveal the names of former owners, I asked him to write to the factory. He did, listing as "evidence," the serial number (54543). Then came my thrill.

John Steinway himself answered Heid's letter. He was pleased to know that the piano was still giving good service. It had been made in the year 1884. It had been sold on Feb. 28, 1887, to a man named William T. Sherman, of 102 E. 125th St., New York City.

Mr. Steinway didn't know, he said, if it was THE William Tecumseh Sherman, the great Civil War General, but maybe.

Starts Dreaming

I dreamed a little, trembled a little. If this Appleton instrument once belonged to this great man, I knew I had a Page One story. It COULD be! Sherman died in 1891. He loved music. He would be 67 years old when a William T. Sherman had bought the piano. The general had lived in New York in an elegant district. (The 125th Street address now is in the garment district, but the street once was "elegant.") Furthermore, Sherman was born in February and the piano was bought that month. A birthday present? I was on Cloud Nine with interest.

Now . . . it remained for me to discover if Sherman had lived at 102 E. 125th St. If so, I had a wonderful human interest story. Almost certainly Page One.

More Research

I discussed the probabilities with Sunday Editor Jay Joslyn who is a Civil War buff and, like me, a great admirer of Gen. Sherman. We believed we could prove that our great general had once owned this lovely old piano. Adequate proof would be his address.

Jay began his research at one end, I started mine at the other. My first night's research was promising but not yet factual. Jay's work ended with a note which he placed on my desk. It read:

"Facts have ruined your story! Alas, on Feb. 13, 1891, Maj. Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman died at his home—75 W. 71st St. 'Dammit!'"

A Twister Flattened this barn on the Clarence Dunlavy farm, route 1, Clintonville, Friday evening. One pig was killed, but cows in the lower part of the barn were not injured. The silo was moved off its foundation. Windows were broken in the farmhouse and trees uprooted in the yard. Dunlavy said he had some insurance. A short distance west of the Dunlavy farm the barn, other small buildings and trees were blown down at the Gilbert Krueger farm, route 1, Clintonville. (Laib Photo)

Clintonville Firemen and Rescue squad workers struggle to free cows trapped in a barn blown down when a tornado struck the Elmer Passehl farm two miles west of Clintonville on Hilltop Road Friday evening. Thirteen cows, four heifers and a flock of chickens were trapped in the barn. Workers rescued the four heifers and five of the cows before suspending operations for the night when they believed all the live animals had been removed from the barn. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Strong Winds During the storm Friday evening uprooted a tree at the Robert Kuehl residence, 256 Bennett St., Clintonville, and flattened this station wagon parked in the driveway. The car is owned by Gilbert Johnson, 175 Garfield Ave., Clintonville. Several trees were blown down in Clintonville, some against houses and others on cars, but damage in the city was not extensive. # Mueller New Head of Leaoia Post STOCKBRIDGE — Hilary Mueller was elected commander of the William D. Hostettler American Legion Post No. 128 in elections Thursday.

Other officers elected were Robert Wilson, vice commander; Marvin Lefebvre, sergeant at arms; Clem Schumacher, finance officer; William McLaughlin, chaplain; Clarence Schroven, historian; and Roland Gerhart, service officer.

Plans for the annual Memorial Day celebration and parade were made. St. Mary Catholic school will present patriotic skits.

The group discussed the annual chicken barbecue and tentative plans were made to hold the fund raising affair in the latter part of July.

Confirmation Rites

NAVARINO — The Rev. Ned Westphal will conduct confirmation rites at St. John Lutheran Church during 11 a.m. Sunday services.

Fund Drive Planned

WAUPACA — Members of the included annual reports and election of officers. Re-elected were Mrs. Edna Murray, clerk; Laurie Anderson and Loren Edminster, deacons; Allen Faulks, trustee; Mrs. Florence Ewald, treasurer; Alvin Elliott, Sunday school superintendent.

Land purchases approved Friday amounted to 930 acres at an outlay of $143,748. State park improvements included outlay of $34,000 at Devil's Lake and $22,000 at Nelson Dewey Park.

A contract for installation of a water distribution system in High Cliff State Park was awarded to Gresl Construction Co., Appleton, on a bid of $34,058.50 when the low bidder drew an initial bid due to error in cost estimates.

New procedures for prescribed burning operations on department-owned or controlled lands line as proposed on Fox River to the Town of Ashwaubenon.

Director Voigt invited the commission to have its next meeting June 11 and 12 at Woodruff in conjunction with dedication of the new muskie hatchery at the northeast area headquarters.

Fund Shortage Hits Forestry Planning

State Unit Advances $60,000

The pinch in state forestry division funds, complicated by failure of Wisconsin voters to approve increased revenues in an April referendum, fell into the lap of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission here Friday.

With obvious reluctance, the commission advanced $60,000 in fish and game funds to forestry for development deemed necessary at the Yellowstone Wildlife area in Lafayette County. Most of the money is needed to develop and expand camping and picnic facilities at the popular recreational center.

Commissioner Charles Smith of Wausau predicted the forestry budget will be short by $500,000 next year. He advised Chief Forester John Beale to prepare for cutbacks in the division which is charged with forest fire protection, reforestation and management of state parks and state forests.

Beale agreed to prepare division recommendations for the commission's finance committee containing cuts in personnel and operational outlays that will conform with curtailed anticipated income.

Funds Endangered

Regarding Yellowstone's peculiar status, Conservation Director Les Voigt said the development originated with the aid of Pittman-Robinson funds as a wildlife area. Its popularity with visitors and overnight campers has changed its nature somewhat. Voigt said the federal funds invested at Yellowstone may become forfeit if the area is transferred to the parks division. Its popularity with the public has increased to the point where 120 campers often converge on a site capable of handling a maximum of 100.

Due to its original nature and development, the state $2 parks and forest use stamp is not in force there, so Yellowstone is not eligible for a pro-rated share of these receipts.

Beale provided figures showing that Yellowstone is not now adequate but it will be impossible to prohibit use of the area for recreation due to its local popularity. He indicated that eventually, through camper fees and other sources, forestry will be able to repay the sum requested.

The forestry financial plight stems in part from failure of voters to approve a five-cent-per-thousand increase in the forest-use tax in the April referendum.

Commissioner Jack Lynch of Ladysmith blamed failure of the referendum to a "misunderstanding." Standing alone, Lynch contended, the modest increase asked for might have passed. The commission indicated the question will be revived later this year. Cooperation of the Wisconsin County Boards Association will be sought in behalf of the forest-use tax increase, it was suggested.

Acquisition of the proposed Mukwa wildlife area in Waupaca County came up but action was deferred for one month. Commissioners Jack Schumacher of Shawano, Paul Olson of Madison and Lynch were prepared to take an immediate vote on preserving this 1,400-acre wetlands abutting County Trunk X and the Wolf River at North Port but Commissioner Smith of the lands committee asked for a postponement. He said his committee, with reluctant approval of Gordon Bubolz of Appleton, chairman of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission and Waddie D. Nader of the New London Sportsman's Club, representing local opinion, wished to see Mukwa in relation to the department's overall program for the Wolf River basin.

The area, now covered with brush, can be revitalized for waterfowl through flooding and water control management. Wayne Truax, district game manager, said.

Land purchases approved Friday amounted to 930 acres at an outlay of $143,748. State park improvements included outlay of $34,000 at Devil's Lake and $22,000 at Nelson Dewey Park.

A contract for installation of a water distribution system in High Cliff State Park was awarded to Gresl Construction Co., Appleton, on a bid of $34,058.50 when the low bidder drew an initial bid due to error in cost estimates.

New procedures for prescribed burning operations on department-owned or controlled lands line as proposed on Fox River to the Town of Ashwaubenon.

Director Voigt invited the commission to have its next meeting June 11 and 12 at Woodruff in conjunction with dedication of the new muskie hatchery at the northeast area headquarters.

Beale also said the district will discontinue using the basement of the Trinity Lutheran Church which was being used as a study hall for Washington High School students.

Following Tuesday's notice, the board of education temporarily halted kindergarten classes until Monday while an attempt was being made to secure permission from the industrial commission to continue classes for the remainder of the present school year.

The commission refused to give written permission to operate the rooms, Reidenbach said, so it was necessary to suspend classes with a month remaining in the present school year.

A search has already started to find suitable quarters for next year's kindergarten classes in the city of New London.

The suspension of classes has affected an estimated 100 students.

Reynolds to Give Speech Governor Will be Honored Guest at New London Dinner

NEW LONDON — Gov. John Reynolds will be present at a dinner in his honor Tuesday night at the American Legion Clubhouse, Gerald Murphy, Waupaca County Democratic chairman, has announced.

Gov. Reynolds, along with other state Democratic dignitaries, are expected to arrive in New London at about 7 p.m. from Green Bay where he is scheduled to speak earlier in the day. The cocktail party preceding dinner is slated to get underway at 6:30 p.m.

Tickets for the event are on sale throughout Waupaca County, Murphy said, and a crowd of 300 is expected to attend.

Committee Named Members of the committee in charge are Murphy, Mrs. Phyllis LaSage Jr., Waupaca; Robert Bergman, Waupaca; Clair Fitzgerald, Clintonville, and Mrs. Walter Wantke, Manawa.

At the present time Gov. Reynolds is in Europe and is scheduled to return to Wisconsin the day before his New London appearance.

Murphy added it is not necessary to be a member of the Democrat party to attend the dinner.

stewardess Marjorie E. Schaefer, the other members of the crew. Deputy coroner Mal Whelan said a human bone found at the scene contained a hole which could have been made by a bullet. He said the bone was not from a skull but declined to say what part of a body it came from.

Ten investigative teams from the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington as well as FBI forces were at the scene, 40 miles east of San Francisco. Military Police stood guard duty.

CONCORD, Calif. (AP)—Disclosure that the pilot of a Pacific Air Lines plane that crashed had been shot brought to light a chain of coincidences.

Another Pacific Air Lines pilot, Oscar Cleal, now 44, was shot in the flight compartment of his plane as it taxied at the Chico, Calif., airport on July 31, 1961, by a man who told officers he wanted to force Cleal to take him to a point off the pilot's route.

Cleal, blinded by a slug that struck his head, set up a judo training program for pilots, something he had long thought was necessary. He got help in his project from an FBI man, Raymond E. Andrews Sr.

The copilot who died in Thursday's crash was Raymond E. Andrews Jr., the first pilot to complete Cleal's judo training program.

Cleal, now a Menlo Park, Calif., stockbroker, stressed anew a statement he made after his experience at Chico—that airliner flight deck doors should be bullet-proofed, and locked in flight.

Co where a roof was blown off and a fuel tank was knocked down; and Theda Clark Hospital where several windows were broken and other scattered damage was reported.

In Menasha, the Tayco-Washington Street bridge was blocked Friday night when bricks from a building across from the Strange Paper Co. blew across the street and shattered several of the paper plant's windows. A portion of the roof was reported to be blown off and damage was generally severe.

Woman Cut Mrs. Anna Dorn, 820 Sixth St. Menasha, was later identified as the janitress at the Strange Co. Working at the time, she suffered cuts from flying glass and was taken to Theda Clark hospital.

The roof of the old John Strange Carton Co., now a warehouse, blew into the street, causing undetermined damage. The John Strange Paper Co., across the street, lost part of its roof, damage estimated at $20,000.

Also a portion of the roof near the power plant was swept away. Timbers from the cart on warehouse whipped across the street and smashed several windows in the paper plant.

The street was blocked off for several hours as crews cleaned up debris and removed downed utility poles.

An unidentified spectator collapsed and was also hospitalized.

Dear Heloise: I had a cedar chest which had entirely lost its fragrance. I bought some oil of cedar at my drug store, put some on a rag and rubbed the inside of the top of the lid. This restored the cedar fragrance. Be sure not to use too much and do keep the chest closed.

Dear Heloise: For the finicky child or adult: We liquidize carrots in our blender and serve about a tablespoon of this liquid in a glass of orange juice! Also several tablespoons of aprons or dressing gown sleeves are put, unnoticed, into cooked cereals, pancake, and waffle mix.

Dear Heloise: To check the lights on your car, park in a shopping center facing a large plate glass window (using this plate glass window as a mirror).

Turn on your turn signals, your parking lights, your head lights, then press the dimmer switch to see if all are working. . . on this glass

Turn the car around and back in and you can check the rear lights in the same manner. Try your turn signals, brake lights, and tail lights and don't forget the license plate lights

LAZY TEEN-AGERS CLUB

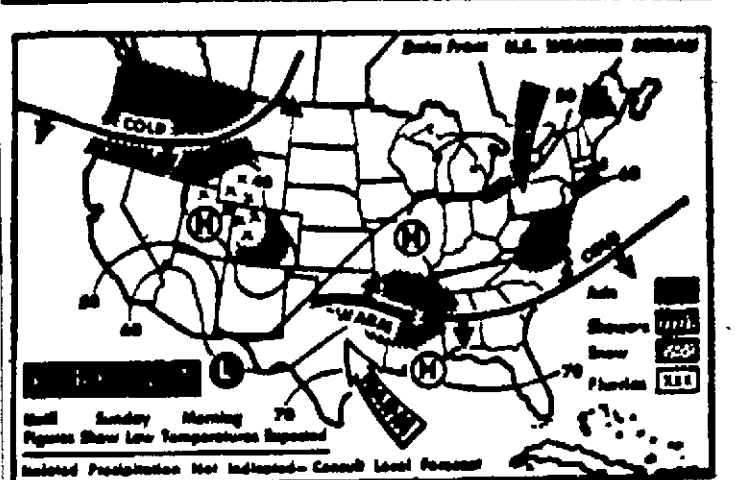

Dear Heloise: I am a fifteen-year-old teenager and like all teenagers I am kind of lazy, so thought that I should pass this on.

My friends and I all like hot dogs and hamburgers and whether it's a snack after a date, a picnic, or just an ordinary meal, we all find it depressing to say and hear, "Pass me the catsup."

Here's what we do now: We chop pickles and put them in a jar (one could use pickle relish) add some catsup, mustard and chopped onions. We mix this all up and use a long handled spoon to spoon the mixture on whatever we are eating. This sure beats adding all these ingredients one by one and it goes over with a bang among our gang.

We think it would be much easier for the little kids to "goop" their own hamburgers and hot dogs this way, too.

Braves Nip Pirates Behind Cloninger

Deciding Run Driven in By Menke

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Milwaukee right-hander Tony Cloninger worked his way out of a couple of early jams and checked the Braves' side Friday night in a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Cloninger, who blanked Pittsburgh on a one-hitter April 28 in Milwaukee, outduelled Joe Gibbon in boosting his record to 2-1 as the third-place Braves remained two games behind front-running San Francisco in the National League pennant race. Encountering control trouble, Cloninger was nicked for a run in the first inning on singles by Roberto Clemente and Willie Stargell and a pair of walks. He got out of a bases-loaded jam by striking out the dangerous Donn Clendenon.

The Pirates put runners on second and third with one out on a single, an error by Cloninger and a sacrifice in the second, but the Milwaukee hurler bore down and retired the next two batters in easy fashion. He allowed only three harmless hits the rest of the way.

Decision Pays Off Milwaukee manager Bobby Bragan's decision to return Felipe Alou to the starting lineup and give Lee Maye a rest paid off. Alou sat on the bench as the Braves suffered a second straight defeat in Philadelphia Thursday night, but opened as leadoff batter in the lineup at Pittsburgh.

With one out in the third, Alou tripled to deep center and scored as Eddie Mathews drilled a single to right. The Braves, who failed to capitalize on several scoring chances, nailed down the decision with a run in the fourth.

Frank Bolling started the inning by blooming a single to center and taking second on a wild pitch. Dennis Menke then celebrated promotion to permanent starting status at shortstop with

Mays, Marichal Lead Giants in 3-0 Win Over Los Angeles

Defending Champs Dropped Seven Games Behind

BY MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Eleven isn't a round number but the San Francisco Giants certainly used the digit to keep the Los Angeles Dodgers going around in circles. Juan Marichal won his 11th game in a row over a two-season span and Willie Mays hit his 11th homer of the season Friday night as the National League leading Giants whipped the Dodgers 3-0 and dropped the defending world champions seven games back. Marichal brought his record to 5-0—he leads both leagues in victories — by checking the Dodgers on five hits while Mays lifted his average to .406 with home run No. 11 and a single. Mays also drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

2.02 ERA Marichal, who had a 25-8 record last year and hasn't lost a game since Aug. 30, 1963, now has four complete games in six starts and an eye-opening 2.02 earned run average. Mays leads the league in five departments — batting, homers, runs batted in with 28, runs scored with 24 and hits with 36.

The combination proved too much for the Dodgers, who went down to their 14th defeat in 23 games this season before a crowd of 40,547 which turned out at San Francisco for the opener of the three-game series. While Mays added to his homer total, Philadelphia's Wes Covington took care of the night's tape-measure homer and drove in five runs in an 11-3 wallop of Cincinnati that kept the Phillies one game back of the Giants.

405 Feet Covington hammered a John Tsitouris pitch over the right center field scoreboard at Connie Mack Stadium in the fourth inning. The scoreboard is 405 feet away and 65 feet high.

Elsewhere in the NL, Tony Cloninger pitched a six-hitter as Milwaukee edged Pittsburgh 2-1 and the New York Mets nipped St. Louis 5-4. Houston and the Chicago Cubs were not scheduled.

The Giants scored in the third against Dodger starter Phil Ortega on a double by Matty Alou, an infield out and Mays' sacrifice fly. Jose Pagan's double, a sacrifice and Alou's single pro-

McMillan Goes to Mets As Braves Get Down To 25-Player Limit

Ask Waivers on Bell, Put Kelly On Disabled List

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves got down to the 25-player limit a few days early Friday by dealing shortstop Roy McMillan to the New York Mets, asking waivers on outfielder Gus Bell and placing rookie southpaw Dick Kelley on the 30-day disabled list.

McMillan, a slick fielder who will be 34 in July, was sent to the Mets for Jay Hook, a former Milwaukee sandlot pitcher, a minor league player to be named later and a reported $100,000 in cash.

Lost to Menke Hook, a 27-year-old right-hander who once received a big bonus to sign with Cincinnati, was sent to the Braves' Denver farm in the Pacific Coast League. He had an 8-1 record for the Mets this season.

McMillan, noted as a clutch hitter despite a low average, lost his job to young Denny Menke early this year. He went to bat only 13 times, collecting four hits for a .308 mark. He came to the Braves in 1960 in a trade that sent Joey Jay to Cincinnati and Juan Pizarro to the Chicago White Sox.

Tried Comeback "I have known all winter I was trading material," McMillan said before packing his bags. "It is a bit of a shock to drop down to the Mets, but they will get the best I've got."

Bell was placed on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release. The 35-year-old veteran's career was hurt badly when he suffered a severe knee injury and ap-

Al Besselink Files Petition Of Bankruptcy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A petition in bankruptcy was filed in U.S. District Court Friday for Al Besselink, local golf professional who participated in many major tournaments.

The petition, filed by attorney Richard J. Gordon, said Besselink, 39, had debts of $22,959 and assets of $5,348.

He reported income of $15,966 in 1961 and $10,617 in 1962 from at the Philmont Country Club, employment as golf professional. His income for 1963, not yet computed for tax purposes, was estimated at $12,000.

The petition said that on Nov. 7, 1963, Besselink sold his assets at Philmont for $1,522, which he paid to the Internal Revenue Service after being served with an attachment for non-payment of taxes. Among his listed debts was $1,785 owed in state and local taxes.

Yankees Whip Cleveland, 10-3; Bressoud Paces Red Sox Win

BY BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer

When the Boston Red Sox made a major deal for Ed Bressoud, they wanted his glove, which is very good. They really hadn't counted much on his bat, which right now is sensational.

The veteran shortstop was acquired from Houston in 1961 in a straight swap for long-time regular Don Buddin in a Red Sox move to tighten up the infield. Bressoud did that.

And right now, he's belting away at a spectacular .380 clip and has a 22-game hitting string going, including all 19 games this season. His highest production average was .263.

It's all because of a shift in his batting stance.

Moves Closer "I moved in closer to the plate," the articulate 32-year-old explained, "to prevent myself from chasing that outside pitch. I know the strike zone better."

"Now I can tell better whether it's a ball or a strike. If I have to reach for it, I know it's a ball and I stop myself immediately. Pitchers don't try to jam me inside much because that's where my power is."

Bressoud said he made the shift "last August when I was hitting .207. I must have raised my average 60 points. I hit over .400 for the last month and had six home runs."

Bressoud kept his hitting string alive Friday night with a two-run, tie-breaking line single to center in the sixth inning of Boston's 9-3 triumph over Washington.

Chicago's White Sox edge Los Angeles 3-1 and replaced Cleveland atop the American League standings after the Indians absorbed a 10-3 pasting from New York. Baltimore nipped Detroit 4-3 in 10 innings and Kansas City outlasted Minnesota 6-5 in 10 innings.

Bressoud, who is hitting .448 — 13 for 29 — with men on base, picked his spot against the Senators. His only hit came with the bases loaded, broke a tie and touched off a seven-run Red Sox burst.

Four of the runs were unearned, coming after an error by shortstop Ed Brinkman. Art Yastrzemski hit a homer for Boston. John Kennedy for Washington.

Fifth Loss in Row The White Sox, who have won 11 of their last 13, went a half game up on Cleveland with their victory at Los Angeles.

Juan Pizarro and Hoyt Wilhelm combined for a five-hit effort while Pizarro and Ron Hansen hit homers. Ken McBride suffered his fifth straight loss after an Opening Day victory.

Mickey Mantle stroked a who have won four of their last five.

A double by Dick Brown and a single by Jerry Adair produced the 10th inning run that

Pirates, Steelers To Get Stadium From URA Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Urban Renewal Administration announced Friday a $14,462,233 grant for work on an urban renewal project in Pittsburgh which will include a new stadium for professional baseball and football games.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark and Rep. William S. Moorhead, Pennsylvania Democrats, were advised of the action. Formal announcement is expected next week from the agency.

The Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Baseball League and the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League will play their home games in the new stadium to be built as part of the $4-acre stadium urban renewal project.

Forbes Field, the present baseball and football stadium, will be razed for a University of Pittsburgh expansion project.

The old adage is that the white bass run when the plum trees blossom, and a few blossoms were responding to the warm early May sun last week as boat after boat pushed off from this landing and worked downstream to the big eddy where the reversing currents form a natural feeding station for the bass.

The silvery fish were rolling near shore, but some patient prodding with the standard Wolf River rig and shiner minnow brought no results. A large spinning lure accounted for several slashing strikes, but the fish failed to get the hooks in their small tender mouths.

A small French spinner finally turned the trick, as a hefty white bass whipped the light spinning rod into a quivering arc and went berserk in a flurry of surface gyrations. These stripes are tough for their size, and will put up a satisfying struggle before reluctantly coming to net.

Fresh from the water, the white bass is one of the most beautiful fish in area waters. The silver flanks sparkle in the sunlight, and the tail sports a delicate translucent blue coloring that fades rapidly as the bass is removed from its element.

One of the most endearing things about this Johnny-come-lately on the river is his sheer numbers. Where the walleye angler may spend cold hours on the river for a pike or two, the white basser enjoys much finer weather, and usually a much heavier stringer. At the peak of the run, catches of bass numbering in the hundreds are not uncommon as their is no bag limit on these fish.

Short-Fused Anglers

If you don't pick up at least a dozen bass in an hour or two, the fish are just having an off day. This eagerness to commit suicide by tackling a hood-trained spinner makes the white bass an ideal fish for the younger set whose patience is often short-fused and demands quick and steady action.

All the white bass being taken this week were males, ripe and heavy with milt. These males are averaging 4 pound-much better size than the "runt" run experienced last spring. The female bass should be coming up the river this weekend, and stringers should be even heavier as these spawners can weigh close to the two pound mark.

Heavy rainfall the past two weeks has brought the level of the river up to normal, and there is no reason not to expect a full-blown run of the hefty silver bass from Lake Winnebago and upstream waters like Butte des Moris and Povegan. Low water earlier curtailed the walleye spawning run on the Wolf.

Where to Find Them

While pike fishing gets hot all the way past Shiocton, the white bass prefer spawning further downstream, with New London, Guths, Gill's Landing at Weyauwega, Fremont and Orihula as the most likely fishing spots.

The old cane pole with Wolf River rig is still the biggest producer of white bass, but when the run is on, a light spinning rod or even a fly rod with weighted streamers can be just as effective and much sportier.

While the nomadic white bass may go on a hunger binge most any time of the day or night, afternoon fishing had produced the best luck to date.

From the culinary angle, the white bass won't stand up on the dinner platter like the walleye, but filleted and pan fried he makes a good—and the scientists tell us, a very nourishing meal. Many anglers smother their white bass for an extra-special eating treat.

Redlands' Kirk Pole Vaults 16 Feet, 3 Inches

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — The West's best college relay teams and a host of individual Olympic team contenders — including one discovered less than 24 hours ago—battled Saturday in the West Coast Relays.

The newcomer is Sam Kirk, a slender University of Redlands pole vaulter who surprised with a 16-3 leap Friday at the first session of the two-day meet — the best outdoor vault in the world this year.

The "name" athletes are all in the second-day events — but Kirk and high schooler James Hines from Oakland, Calif., showed that a trackman need not be famous to star. Hines tied the 33-year-old National Scholastic 100-yard dash record of 9.4 seconds and immediately said he plans to run for Arizona State University next year.

Long to Compete

Arizona State, already among the nation's best sprint relay teams, will battle Saturday night against New Mexico and Fresno State. Stanford, Oregon State and San Jose State figure to dominate the distance medley and two-mile relays. Shot-putter Dallas Long is the meet's most likely world record setter.

He upped his own mark to 65-11 1/4 a month ago and has not recovered from a foot injury suffered when he dropped a weight.

Only about a thousand fans saw Kirk's unlooked-for demonstration. He hadn't vaulted for three weeks and his lifetime best of 15-6 1/4 had come a long three months ago. He said he was looking more to Saturday's competition.

Hines, from McClymonds High School quickly took the lead in his record sprint. He then maintained the gap against a strong field. All five watches caught him in 9.4. And the wind was a legal 1.0 mile an hour. Famed Jesse Owens set the record at Chicago in 1933 and until Friday it had been equalled only twice.

McMillan Fifth to Try to Solve Met Shortstop Woes

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets' search for a shortstop has ended—again.

The National League basement tenants obtained Roy McMillan, 33-year-old one-time All-Star, from Milwaukee Friday in exchange for cash—estimated at $100,000 by Brave sources—pitcher Jay Hook and another player to be named later.

McMillan, a fancy-fielding, light-hitting veteran of 13 NL seasons with Cincinnati and Milwaukee, was due to join the Mets in time for today's game against St. Louis here.

Braves, meanwhile, optioned Hook to their Denver farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

McMillan, who lost the Milwaukee shortstop job to young Denis Menke this spring, batted .308 in 13 plate appearances for the Braves. He has a lifetime batting average of .246.

The new Met is the seventh acquired from Milwaukee since New York was admitted to the league in 1962. He is also the fifth heir-apparent to the shortstop post. Al Moran and Amado Samuel have been sharing the position thus far this season.

Hook, last of New York's quartet of $125,000 premium purchases in the NL expansion draft three years ago—Bob Miller, Don Zimmer and Lee Walls were the others—was also the first Met pitcher to record a victory.

The 27-year-old right-hander won 12 and lost 33 in two full seasons with New York and has a 29-61 lifetime record. He lost his only 1964 decision and had a 9.00 earned run average.

The Mets named pitcher Larry Bearnarth to replace Hook as their player representative.

Badgers Boost Record to 4-3

Survive Shaky Start to Stop Wildcats, 6 to 4

MADISON (AP) — Southpaw Lance Tobert survived a shaky start and posted his third straight Big Ten victory Friday as Wisconsin moved above the 500 mark in conference baseball action with a 6-4 decision over Northwestern.

Tobert, who hadn't allowed an earned run in two previous triumphs, was nicked for three runs in the first inning, but settled down to check the Wildcats. He allowed 13 hits, but was helped by three double plays.

The Badgers, who collected nine singles, tied the game with three runs in their half of the first. Their speed on the base-paths then helped them to single runs in the fourth, fifth and eighth innings as they boosted their conference record to 4-3.

Badger centerfielder Rick Reichardt had a single in three trips to the plate, dropping his conference leading average from .581 to .50. He stole his fifth base in seven games.

Northwestern, which has a 1-6 Big Ten record, and the Badgers were scheduled to meet in a doubleheader in Madison today.

Kaukauna to Open Softball League Play

KAUKAUNA — The City Softball League, sponsored by the Kaukauna Recreation Department, will open play Monday, night, with 12 teams entered.

The opening game at 7 p.m. Monday pits Badger Northland against Eagles Club. At 8:15 Giddings and Lewis will meet Mellow Gold Dairy. The lone game scheduled Wednesday is an 8:30 p.m. affair with Shamrock Bar battling Tony's Bar.

First game at 7 p.m. Thursday will be Mullen's Barbershop versus Pendleton's, while the 8:15 contest will have Peters' Bar playing Powers' Pub. First game Friday, at the same time, will be Rich's Modern Bar, verlocked by electric timer, at 155 871, 156.00, 155.333 and 156-233. The official one-lap record around the 1/2-mile track is 151.847 miles an hour, set by Jones last year in substantially the same car.

The Torrance, Calif., veteran turned four laps Thursday, at 155 871, 156.00, 155.333 and 156-233. The official one-lap record around the 1/2-mile track is 151.847 miles an hour, set by Jones last year in substantially the same car.

Opening Saturday night game will be Tony's Bar against Pendleton's and Shamrock versus Mullen's.

RIGHT ELBOW CONTROL

IT IS MY PERSONAL THEORY THAT A SWING ACCENTUATING USE OF ARMS, RATHER THAN WRISTS, PRODUCES GREATER CONTROL.

ACTION, IN ADDITION TO GAINING A LONGER ARC, I ALLOW MY RIGHT ELBOW TO POINT SLIGHTLY UP AND AWAY FROM THE BODY ON THE BACKSWING

EXCESS WRIST SNAP AT THE BALL (AS OCCURS WHEN ELBOW IS VERY CLOSE TO BODY) IS PREVENTED, AND I AM ABLE TO FOLLOW THE CLUBHEAD THROUGH SMOOTHLY IN A SORT OF STIFF-ARM MANNER.

NOTE: ELBOW IS STILL BASICALLY CLOSE TO BODY, NEVER LOOS OR FLOPPY.

Homer Clears Scoreboard

Wes Covington Joins Tape-Measure Brigade

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wes Covington joined the tape-measure brigade Friday night. He hit back-to-back singles. Up blasted a home run Philadelphia fans will talk about for years.

The 23,004 who made up the largest crowd of the season at Connie Mack Stadium will be surprised to learn, however, the shot wasn't the longest in the career of the 32-year-old slugger.

Told his three-run drive traveled 450 feet in sailing over the 65-foot-high scoreboard, Covington commented:

"I hit one longer in the Polo Grounds when the Giants were still playing there. It went into the parking lot, clear out of the place — out in the bullpen area of right field."

Covington, who has been in a terrific slump — he was hitting .214 before hammering Cincinnati pitching for three hits and five runs batted in — isn't convinced he is out of the woods yet.

Works on Timing

"I don't believe I'm completely out of it yet," he said in the dressing room after the Phillies trounced Cincinnati 11-3 with 18 hits.

"I'm still working on my timing and that takes two or three weeks after you begin to see them drop in there. You have to hit against a number of pitchers before you're convinced you're back in the groove."

If Covington isn't in the groove now Cincinnati pitcher John Taitouris doesn't want to be around when the husky outfielder finds it.

Taitouris was still in the game

Chiefs' Jerry Mays Retires From AFL

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jerry Mays, defensive tackle for the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League, announced Friday he is retiring to devote full time to business interests in Dallas.

Mays was an all-league selection when the club, then the Dallas Texans, won the 1962 championship.

The Roots of the Poverty Program

In the war on poverty which the administration is pushing with obvious election-year overtones, the exact type of poverty which we are warring against has not been very explicitly defined. And the means of fighting this war as a result are aimed more at the symptoms than the causes.

President Johnson has defined poverty as meaning a family income of less than $3,000 a year, and declares that one-fifth of American families fall into this category. But as we have pointed out before some families can get along fairly well on such a cash income while others are in dire financial straits with considerably higher incomes.

The one disturbing fact of economic life in the United States today is that unemployment continues at relatively high levels despite overall prosperity.

And there is a corollary economic fact which may have a great deal to do with unemployment. And that is that corporate profits and hence business investment have stagnated over the last decade.

Newspaper stories have reported that overall profits of private business reached new record highs in 1963. But these primarily reflected growth in sales and increased investment. The rate of return on investment rose only slightly, reaching 9.5 per cent against 9 per cent in 1962. And this is a far cry from the rate of 16 per cent recorded back in 1950.

Between 1956 and 1963, the annual rate of personal consumption grew $100 billion, of residential construction over $7 billion, of government spending $72 billion. A federal cash surplus of $5.5 billion in 1956 was converted into a deficit of $4.1 billion in 1963.

The annual rate of labor income grew $90 billion during the same period, of all disposable personal income by $107 billion.

But the rate of business and professional income increased only $5.5 billion, of net corporate profits by less than $3 billion, and of expenditures for new plant and equipment $2.4 billion—an actual decline when expressed in constant dollars.

Simultaneously unemployment jumped from 2.8 million in 1956 to 4.1 million in 1963.

The tax cut proposed by President Kennedy last year and put through at President Johnson's urging this year is the first recognition by the federal government in a long time that a higher rate of return after taxes is vital to expansion of American industry and therefore increased employment opportunity.

Prior to this move, government economic philosophy was dedicated to the proposition that higher consumption, encouraged by higher government spending, would do the job.

Conservative economists have long argued that a substantial cutback in the corporate income tax rate and in the excessively high rates in the higher and medium brackets of the personal income tax was urgently needed. The aim of such a program was not to help stockholders and wealthy persons amass greater fortunes, but to augment savings, increase incentives for the most productive individuals and to widen employment opportunities.

For private industry to invest in new products, new plants, new machines and new jobs, prospective profits must be adequate when weighed against the risks involved. Government today is by far the greatest profit eater any business is up against, and the best management cannot reduce that cost.

If the Johnson administration is really serious about its war against poverty, if it is worrying about the unemployment problem after November as much as it is between now and the election, there is an obvious course to follow.

That course is to reduce government spending to the point where further tax relief can be granted businesses and individuals.

It took 160 years—from 1789 to 1948—for federal spending for civilian purposes to reach a total of $7 billion. But it took only another 16 years—from 1948 to 1964—to boost it to $46 billion. If this rate of progression were to continue for another 20 years, virtually all income and product in the United States would be channelled through and distributed by the government.

Now that we have made a small start in tax reduction, and now that President Johnson is at least orally committed to reducing federal spending, the time is ripe for the federal government to declare its steadfast belief in returning the management of the American economy to free enterprise, to letting individuals and businesses spend their own money at their own incentive rather than having the government do it for them.

Such a program would accomplish the most the fastest to reduce poverty.

Looking Ahead on College Avenue

Representatives of the Downtown Tomorrow Committee held an informal meeting recently with city officials to seek the answers to a few questions they have concerning the proposed reconstruction of College Avenue.

Although many questions remained unanswered because they may have been premature, the discussion by representatives of the business community and public officials had considerable significance.

It showed that downtown merchants continue to have a progressive outlook and are starting to think in terms of how the College Avenue project will affect them, and what they might do to assist city officials in having an orderly construction program without tying up the entire business district for any undue time.

City officials said they have included the College Avenue project in the capital improvement program and feel 1966 is a realistic starting date, with the work to be done in at least two phases.

This type of liaison between the municipal government and the businessmen who are anxious to preserve and improve the city's healthy economy is a good sign. Without this kind of across-the-table discussion and cooperation progress would become a meaningless expression.

The Role of the Foreign Correspondent

The Overseas Press Club, an organization of American foreign correspondents, is celebrating its 25th anniversary this year and in observance has published an especially informative issue of its annual magazine, Dateline.

One of the articles is by John Hightower, the Associated Press reporter in Washington who has covered the State Department for some 20 years and whose dispatches are published almost daily in the Post-Crescent. He writes of the role, responsibilities and qualifications of the perceptive foreign correspondent. And he pays particular tribute to the fact that frequently it is the reporting of American correspondents at the scene of crisis abroad which puts the news from Washington in proper perspective.

To quote "Reports from the little group of hard-working correspondents in Saigon focused public and government attention on setbacks and failures in the anti-Communist struggle in South Viet Nam long before official Washington was ready to concede that the whole operation was going so badly. The split between France and the rest of the NATO allies was reported and analyzed in press dispatches long before other allied governments were ready to acknowledge its seriousness. And allied leaders in their public statements lagged far behind the press in speculating on the significance of the break between the Soviet Union and Communist China.

"Similarly news and analytical reports from Latin America first shaped the story of the shortcomings of the Alliance for Progress and helped create pressure on Washington for a shakeup in the whole vast undertaking. Indeed news dispatches from Latin America have served, as official Washington statements never have, to publicize the difficulties and misunderstandings in U. S. relations with Latin American countries. Being printed in both Latin America and the U.S., such dispatches help to keep alive the dialogue between governments over differences and to create pressure for change and improvement."

The background reporting of foreign correspondents probably does not attract as high readership as on-the-spot reports on crisis situations. But overseas American newspapermen also demonstrate that the most powerful check on government is a free press and its independent reporters.

Polaris Sub Crews On 3-Month Shifts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Each Polaris submarine has two 140-man crews, designated the Blues and the Golds.

Each stays on duty three months, then returns to the United States for three months of leave and additional training while the alternate crew takes command. Crew switches are made at an overseas base to reduce the time the submarine will be off patrol.

A crew remains submerged the entire time it is on station.

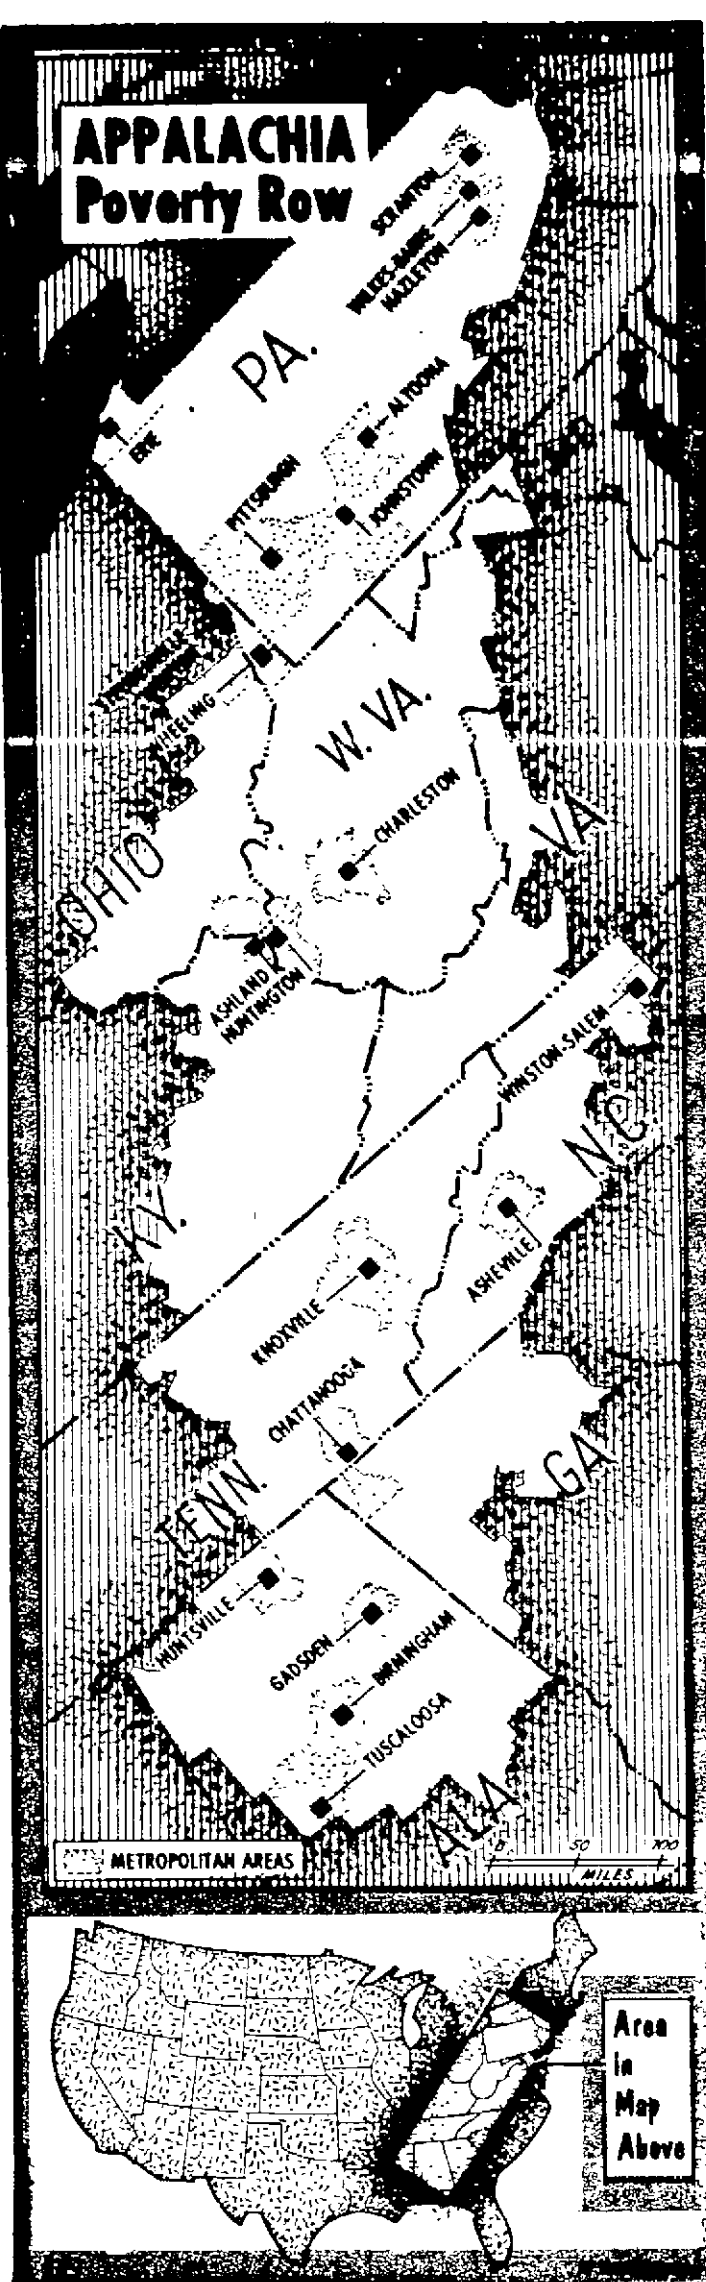

Potomac Fever— by Jack Wilson

The President reports that he found his beagle standing on his hind legs all by himself the other day. And holding his forepaws over his ears?

The Democrats ought to pay more attention to Gov. Wallace. He's a comer — the only candidate who ever won an election just by saying so.

Some of the commentators have been unkind to Wallace. They pointed out that in the Indiana primary even Harold Stassen got a lot of votes.

It's not quite true that all those Kennedy people left their White House jobs voluntarily. One was fired — on grounds he used a pay phone and forgot to look in the coin return slot.

Appalachia Pocket of Poverty in Rich Area

BY RICHARD F. NEWCOMB
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Appalachia is a strange place — a huge pocket of poverty in the heart of the world's richest area.

It is the East's principal mountain chain, and contains breath-taking vistas at every hand. It has plenty of water — most of it foul — and it supplies two-thirds of the nation's coal.

It is a vast area — 165,000 square miles, ten times the size of Switzerland — running from Erie, Pa., to Birmingham, Ala.

And it contains 15.3 million people — by and large the poorest people in the nation. Geographically, Appalachia encompasses all of one state — West Virginia — and parts of nine others—Pennsylvania, Ohio, Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. The eyes of the nation are on it.

President John F. Kennedy first focussed attention on Appalachia. He discovered the depth of poverty there when he was campaigning for the presidency, and later appointed the President's Appalachian Regional Commission (PARC). After the assassination, President Johnson ordered the commission to continue its work. The report of the Commission, headed by Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and including representatives of the states in the region, presented a stark picture of life in Appalachia. It also recommended a long-range federal-states program to cost billions of dollars.

WASTED NO TIME President Johnson wasted no time. He visited parts of Appalachia, talked with some of the people there, and said these things:

He has declared "unconditional war on poverty" and the goal is "total victory."

"We are not going to rest until unemployment is out of date... in every American city."

"For the first time in our history an America without hunger is a practical prospect, and it must — it just simply must — be done."

For every man there must be "A little house with a picture on the wall and a rug on the floor and music in the home."

Then he returned to Washington and four days later sent to Congress a proposal to get the Appalachia program under way with "the urgency and the need that is so plainly written on the faces of Appalachian citizens."

For the first year, starting July 1, he asked $280 million. Main features of the program are:

1. Highways — To open up the blind valleys and passless ridges of the mountain country.

2. Flood and Water Projects — In flood times the rivers devastate the towns in the narrow mountain valleys. At all times the streams are polluted by acid leakage from the mines and lack of sewage facilities.

3. Timber and Mine Improvement — The two great resources of the area have been steadily exported, without sufficient benefit to the area. The long-range plan is to develop uses of these materials within Appalachia—timber processing and manufacture, and the use of coal for power and chemical products.

4. Agriculture—Farming has declined sharply in the area. The plan is to switch to pasturage development for cattle and dairy farming where feasible.

STATISTICS TELL PROBLEM

The magnitude of the problem is told in a few statistics: Tuberculosis is 50 per cent higher in Appalachia than in the rest of the country.

In some rural counties, 80 per cent of the children do not finish the eighth grade. Employment in Appalachia declined 1.5 per cent in the 1950-60 decade, while it was increasing 15 per cent in the rest of the country.

Population went up 1.1 per cent, while in the rest of the country it was growing 20.4 per cent.

All economic indicators—retail sales, automobile sales, spending on services — are far below the national averages.

To put it concretely: President Johnson sat on the porch of a ramshackle home near Inez, Ky., and talked with Tom Fletcher. He's a sawmill operator with eight children. Last year he made $400.

That's Appalachia.

Office of Town Constable Is Example of Government Atrophy

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The northern reader had a question. Why, he demanded, does the office of town constable in Wisconsin survive in law in spite of the fact that it has been obsolete for a long time?

Why, indeed? Why do other offices and public service institutions survive long beyond the time when the naked eye of the most inattentive can perceive that they are no longer needed? One of the recent acts of the legislature that was hailed as an achievement did away with the office of county superintendent of schools. That was also obsolete, by common consent. But nobody proposed that it should be abolished until the superintendents themselves turned up in Madison with an alternative form of service organization for non-urban districts which the legislature also approved. That new system provides for the office of "district coordinators," and the qualifications are so listed as to make it virtually certain that the prospectively unemployed superintendents will fill the new jobs.

A couple of years ago the lower court system of Wisconsin was completely retooled. One of the purposes was to do away with the office of justice of the peace because it was inefficient and useless in most jurisdictions. The office survives, nevertheless. Here and there somebody runs for it and is elected.

OTHERS

The office of coroner by all ordinary considerations is obsolete. If there is any justification for the office it should be reserved for men of professional competence in ascertainment of the causes of death.

But all efforts to replace the office with a system of county or district medical examiners have come to naught. In Milwaukee the office survives only because it is legally required. The incumbent has no duties. A substitute medical examiner's system has in fact been created. The office of county surveyor similarly would be abolished, at least with respect to its status on the election ballot, and replaced with a civil service technician under an utterly logical system. Perhaps some others in the courthouse system are not obsolete. But there is serious doubt they involve public policy functions to the extent that they should be elected rather than recruited on the basis of training and professional competence.

But the question related to the office of town constable, the functionary to whom was entrusted the duty of keeping the peace and enforcing the local laws and ordinances in the earliest days of settlement of a predominantly agricultural region.

In point of fact, few town constables survive. A Madison legal specialist says that to his knowledge there is not now a town constable in some 20 of the southern Wisconsin towns for which he acts as legal counsel.

HOW IT GOES

Town boards nowadays hire professional policemen for law enforcement work under laws enacted a long time ago. Other traditional functions such as process serving are handled by sheriff's deputies in most jurisdictions. The obsolescence of the office in practical terms is indicated most clearly by the fact that the law of today nowhere makes any provision for a town constable's salary.

Yet if anybody in any town wants to run for constable, for the pleasure of being entitled to wear a badge or a gun or for whatever reasons best known to himself, he is entitled to do so and his neighbors are entitled to elect him. The office survives not because there is any need for it but because nobody has ever thought to ask the legislature to do away with it by repealing the laws authorizing it.

It should also be emphasized that the atrophy of official places is not confined to local governments. There are unnecessary services in the state government as well that have survived merely because nobody has seemed to care. As somebody has said, the closest thing to immortality in an imperfect world is a public service once enacted.

Are PTA's Really Worthwhile? Little Chute Woman Thinks So

Editor, Post-Crescent:

A recent article in a national magazine, by a prominent educator, was a serious blast to PTA's. This article is as damaging to the PTA as saying "All Negroes are ignorant" is to the Civil Rights issue.

I do not have an impressive title nor the intellectual background to rate equal time in a national magazine, besides, I admire the nerve of an educator taking a public stand on an issue that obviously will flood his mailbox from the opposition. I would, however, appreciate the opportunity through our local paper, to say a word in defense of our local PTA's, many of whom work diligently to rise above the stigma of the critics who tag us as a "money-making, coffee-drinking, bunch of busy-bodies!"

Our PTA is proud of their recent contribution to our school of an overhead projector and screen, and a piano for our stage. However, as a recent delegate to the State PTA Convention in Milwaukee,

I heard our own state officers, many of whom are teachers, principals, and school board members, stressing over and over for us to play down the idea of raising money to buy equipment for the schools and to stress better relations between parents and teachers, to make our members more aware of civic responsibilities, to educate them on legislation that will affect education, and, most important, to take a stand on local issues important to the school.

Our group is only four years old and we admittedly have much to learn. We fully realize that many local PTAs back off on controversial issues. My answer to our critics is that problems arising from these issues require co-operation from parents, teachers, and local officials to be effectively resolved. How can we expect co-operation from our members and civic leaders when comedians mock PTA, and when public written criticism is available to them to use as a crutch when excusing themselves from participation in PTA work?

As a working mother of four small children, my free time is limited. During the past year, much of this free time has been devoted to carrying out my duties as president of a PTA, an office I share with my husband, equally dedicated. We have been re-elected for another term, and had hoped to put into effect some of the new ideas we got at the state convention. This will require co-operation from our members. I would hate to feel that the hard work of our local founders and their successors has been in vain. My hope, therefore, is that those of our members who have been exposed to the magazine article of which I speak, will be given an opportunity to read an article, by an equally qualified person, in defense of the good that can be done by an active Parent - Teacher Association.

Gen. Banks' Defeat Disastrous

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for May 14, 1864.

Gen. (Nathaniel P.) Banks' defeat and retreat to Alexandria, La., (in the Red River campaign of May, 1864, in Arkansas and Louisiana) was the most complete and disastrous since the war commenced. Gen. Banks was removed and Gen'l Edward Canby appointed in his stead.

Our loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was between 12,000 and 15,000. Value of arms, ammunition, supplies totalled over $4 million; of cash $1,250,000; of cotton destroyed $400,000; gunboats or transports taken or destroyed, $1,700,000.

Gen'l Banks was in constant danger of his life at Alexandria from the infuriated soldiers who charged him with incompetence, c. y., stubbornness and stupidity.

The next evil consequence of Banks' defeat was the isolation of Gen'l Steele, who marched with 15,000 men from Arkansas to consolidate with Banks' troops near Shreveport, La. Steele heard of Banks' defeat 300 miles from Little Rock, far from supplies or succor.

He soon was pressed by a victorious force of rebels. He quickly lost his army train, next his artillery, then ambulances, hospital stores, etc. Pledging his army never to surrender, his brave boys marched and fought 150 miles on less than quarter rations of bacon and bread, slaughtering rebels by the score with every mile.

Throwing away even their extra clothing, these gallant men tramped the last 20 miles without even a cracker, reaching Little Rock with the enemy at their heels, losing in all not quite 2,000 men. This (retreat) was an achievement almost without parallel.

Porter's Red River fleet of cotton pickers is almost used up. Our Wisconsin Third Cavalry is at Little Rock.

Rebels now infest Little Rock, Fort Smith, Duvall's Bluff and hold possession of all Texas save a few miles around Brownsville. It is feared they will sweep through western Arkansas up to Kansas.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, May 6, 1839.

Bruce Grossman was installed as master councilor of the John F. Rose Chapter, Order of DeMolay. Other officers included Robert Dettman, James Miller, Bruce Cameron, Carleton Bab, Don Wulgar, Robert William, Owen Larson, Robert Dettman, Robert Pelton, Frank Spencer, Frank Abendroth, Bud Thomas, Gordon Munson, Olin Meade Jr., LaVerne Sipple and Robert Bayley.

Mrs. Emma Conroy was hostess for the Ladies Auxiliary to the Wisconsin Paid Firemen's Association. Winners at schafskopf were Mrs. Elizabeth Lucia and Mrs. Emerson Turney. Mrs. John McLaughlin won at dice.

Kenneth Nichols, George Cobb and R. S. Ewald were elected deacons for First Baptist Church, Waupaca, at the congregation's annual dinner and business meeting.

Joan Bauernfeind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bauernfeind, Appleton, entertained at a birthday party in her home. Her guests included Jean Claire Bock, Dolores Kle-benow, Betty Madison, Donna Mae Douglas, Marjorie Benson, Lucy Van Wyck, Betty Klish and Jane Rae Lavin.

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, May 8, 1954.

France was plunged in gloom over the shattering defeat at Dien Bien Phu. In Saigon, Gen. Henri Navarre, commander of French forces in Indo-China, issued a terse statement that day that fighting was to continue despite the serious setback.

Kimberly girls who advanced from Brownie Scouts to Girl Scouting in a Fly-Up ceremony included Mary Bloks, Becky Fahrnkru, Shirley Hammen, Mary Jane Liethen, Pam Maas, Janet Phillips, Cindy Sarasin, Mary Ann Verbeten, Lyn Versteegen, Sharon Welch, Rosemary Weyenberg, Mary Pat Ver Voort, Barbara Williams, Pamela Swiers and Rosalyn Maas.

Mrs. Lee Talady was elected president of the New London Girl Scout Council. Other officers included Mrs. George Ostermeier, vice president; Mrs. Robert Taubel Jr., secretary; Mrs. John Mullarkey, finance chairman, and Mrs. Kenneth Cottrill, program chairman.

Officers of the newly organized Elder Row School Parent-Teacher Association were Mrs. Harold Ransom, president; Mrs. Owen Neilson, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Norman Conradt and Mrs. Norman Hansen, program chairmen.

Sandra Lemke and Jack Close were elected co-presidents of the Radio Forum Workshop at Appleton High School.

Defenders Keep Drama Strong Today

BY TV SCOUT
7:30-8:30 (Channel 2)—In a season that is dwindling everywhere else, the Defenders comes up with one of its strongest, most pertinent dramas of the year—"The Man Who Saved His Country." James Coburn, in an outstanding performance, plays a good-natured country boy from Sweetwater, Tex., who in self-defense slays a Cuban Communist leader as he would an angry jack rabbit. Unwittingly, he is transformed into a public hero.

4:30-5 (Channel 4-5)—From the New York World's Fair Pavilion glimpses of the last rounds of the 12th annual Amateur Athletic Union Judo Championships, with the U.S., Great Britain, Canada, Brazil, Mexico, Japan, Panama and Guatemala men on the mat. An NBC Sports Special.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 11)—Hootenanny repeats one of its better shows of the season—the time the group visited the University of Maryland.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2)—If you get tied up in traffic and can't make it to the New York World's Fair, Joe the Bartender, with an oasis in Brooklyn, is taking in all out-of-town refugees in one of the more amusing sketches on The Jackie Gleason Show.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 4-5)—Gary Lockwood continues his growing up in this repeat on The Lieutenant. The plot takes him back to his home town, on an official mission to return the body of a goof-off, killed through his own carelessness on a maneuver. Lockwood's father (John Beal) is a newspaper editor who specializes in pacifist editorials.

2-10 (Channel 4-5)—Saturday Night at the Movies revives one of its more powerful epics—"Executive Suite," the 1954 MGM big-budgeted drama concerning the intra-company power struggle resulting from the death of a business tycoon.

8:30-9 (Channel 2)—The New Phil Silvers Show has some good gags here and there in this repeat, but the rest of it is rather dull and uninspired. The gimmick is that Phil thinks he has outsmarted his pals; he's sure they are planning a surprise party for him, so he proceeds to make all the arrangements.

8:30-9:30 (Channel 11)—Host again for The Hollywood Palace is actor Dale Robertson, who will introduce a squadron of the film capital's liveliest sparkplugs—Betty Hutton; comics Paul Lynde and Carole Cooke and singer John Gary.

9-10 (Channel 2)—Patricia Owens, a newcomer to Dodge City, raises a few eyebrows and more when a body is found on her ranch in this less than absorbing episode on Gunsmoke.

WAPL Interview Series to Feature Herbert H. Helble

H. H. Helble, retiring this spring after 39 years as principal of Appleton Senior High School, will be featured in a series of three interviews Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday mornings over WAPL Radio. The interviews are scheduled for the 9:35 a.m. "College Avenue USA" show, conducted daily by Mary Ellen Ducklow.

The three interview segments also will be presented in an hour-long documentary as a Sunday afternoon feature May 24. The first interview deals with Helble's reflections on changes in high schools generally and in AHS specifically in 39 years. The second is on the problems movie "My Pal Wolf."

he anticipates his successor will face, and the third what he feels to be the responsibility and the possibility of public high school "teaching" citizenship in the American republic.

Winners in Theater Contests Receive Puppies as Prizes

Three collie puppies went to three youthful owners in the Fox Cities recently as prizes in a recent coloring contest sponsored by area movie theaters.

Winners were Jacqueline Schwerbell, Appleton, in the Viking Theater contest; Myra Ann Bruss, Combined Locks, Rialto Theater; and Debra Gaulke, Menasha, Brin Theater.

The competition was held in high schools generally and in AHS specifically in 39 years. connection with the children's movie "My Pal Wolf."

Charlie Tells Drama Behind News Story

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Poor reader! You are too often "left out" of the thrilling events which sometimes surround the gathering of a news story. We assemble our facts, present them to you, but seldom tell you the interesting things that happen en route.

For today, you may come behind the scene with me in the development of a news story which had me quivering.

It began about six months ago. An ebullient friend, Lloyd Derus, called me:

"Charlie, there's a fine old concert piano at George's Steak House in Appleton. I hear it once belonged to Lawrence College and that it's very old. I thought it might be a story if you'd care to dig for it."

Well, reader, you know. An old piano? I was only half interested.

I "sat on the story" for a few weeks. Then I happened to drop into George's Steak House and I remembered Lloyd's call. I took a quick look at the old instrument and I had to agree that it was interesting. Nevertheless, the proprietor wasn't in that day and nobody on the staff could help me. So I sat on the story for a few more weeks.

Then came a note from the boss. Had I heard, he asked, about a very old piano at George's Steak House? Might make an interesting story?

This is the kind of time I really move. I gathered up Lloyd Derus and together we went to George's to talk to the owner. He is D. J. Guyon, better known as "Dod" (pronounced "Dode"). Dod had purchased the steak house three years ago from George Fiedler. The piano was part of the deal.

Remembered Facts

Dod remembered some facts: The piano, he thought, was built in 1884 (it was). It is made of rosewood, is nine feet long, and a concert grand made by Steinway. It had not been owned by Lawrence College; it was owned once by the Appleton Public Schools.

Dod remembered that one of his patrons, I. L. Heiberg of Menasha, had been interested enough to start a research on it. Heiberg had sent a letter to Dod and informed him of what he had discovered. But, too bad! The letter was missing.

I contacted Mr. Heiberg. Yes, he had researched the piano. He had written to Steinway and Steinway explained it was not their policy to reveal the names of early buyers of their instruments. But Heiberg had checked the piano back to the Heid Music Co. And also the Appleton public school system had once owned it.

Checked Schools

I checked the public schools. No information was available; nobody remembered it. (Later research showed that the school system obtained the piano, nobody knows where, in 1939).

New I called on Peter Heid of the Heid Music Company. I was now on the right track but my big thrill was coming later.

Heid was cooperative and informative. Yes, he remembered the instrument. He had seen it on the stage of the high school. Kids were jumping on it, dancing on it, abusing it. It was practically "junk," he said. He purchased it (for $100).

Piano Refurbished

All summer long his staff worked on it, especially L. A. Bieritz. Next Heid contracted with a fine cabinet maker, Al Engel, to have a bar-top made for the piano. To refurbish it, Heid spent, he said, hundreds of dollars.

Heid had remembered something when he was in the armed forces. He had played in the Army band led by Wayne King, then U. S. Army major. While in the service, Heid had visited the Sherman Hotel (which you will soon discover was a quaint coincidence). At the Sherman, Heid had observed a "sing-along" piano. Customers sat around it and sang along with the pianist. Heid thought the idea had a potential for Appleton.

With the idea and the refurbished concert grand, he went to George Fiedler and talked him into buying it and using it as a source of fine dinner music and a "sing-along" device. Cost to George: $750. It may well be the first such piano bar ever put into use in Wisconsin. The year was 1952.

Big Thrill

Hoping that, as a dealer in Steinway pianos, Heid could help us break the Steinway rule not to reveal the names of former owners, I asked him to write to the factory. He did, listing as "evidence," the serial number (54543). Then came my thrill.

John Steinway himself answered Heid's letter. He was pleased to know that the piano was still giving good service. It had been made in the year 1884. It had been sold on Feb. 28, 1887, to a man named William T. Sherman, of 102 E. 125th St., New York City.

Mr. Steinway didn't know, he said, if it was THE William Tecumseh Sherman, the great Civil War General, but maybe.

Starts Dreaming

I dreamed a little, trembled a little. If this Appleton instrument once belonged to this great man, I knew I had a Page One story. It COULD be! Sherman died in 1891. He loved music. He would be 7 years old when a William T. Sherman had bought the piano. The general had lived in New York in an elegant district. (The 125th Street address now is in the garment district, but the street once was "elegant.") Furthermore, Sherman was born in February and the piano was bought that month. A birthday present? I was on Cloud Nine with interest.

Now . . . it remained for me to discover if Sherman had lived at 102 E. 125th St. If so, I had a wonderful human interest story. Almost certainly Page One.

More Research

I discussed the probabilities with Sunday Editor Jay Joslyn who is a Civil War Buff and, like me, a great admirer of Gen. Sherman. We believed we could prove that our great general had once owned this lovely old piano. Adequate proof would be his address.

Jay began his research at one end, I started mine at the other. My first night's research was promising but not yet factual. Jay's work ended with a note which he placed on my desk. It read:

"Facts have ruined your story! Alas, on Feb. 13, 1891, Maj. Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman died at his home—75 W. 71st St. 'Dammit!'"

Tullar School Program Honors Pupils' Mothers

NEENAH — It was "front and center" for Moms Friday. Moms, that is, who had boys and girls in Mrs. Evelyn Haase's sixth grade class at Tullar School.

Steve Hetzel was narrator for a "Music Around the World" theme for the mother's tea and, in native costume the 10 boys and 21 girls sang folk songs from Czechoslovakia, France, Switzerland and Cuba.

Jill Koerner and Jack Anderson gave recitations.

Each mother received a piner cushion, velvet topped, the handiwork of her child.

Feted were the mothers of Marlene Mueller, Tim Young, Duane Natzke, Jack Anderson, Jim De Mars, Donna Stahl, Vickie Peterson, Colleen Walczak, Peggy Schnitzer, Jack Abhold, Jill Koerner, Debbie Allen, Debbie Gibson, Jennifer Strand, Lynn Raymaker, Carol Demetry, Carol Teitzke, Kathy Haase, Stan Schultz, Jane DeLone, Patie DeWald, Jane Robble, Linda Grundmann, Beverly House, Bill

Reed, Steven Hetzel, Penny Sedo, Dean Erdman, Doug Kosel, Gwen Olson and Helen Merley.

Fox Cities Youths Lose Licenses

MENASHA — Two youths have lost their driving privileges in Menasha Juvenile Court because of traffic violations.

They are Daniel Fredrickson, 17, 629 E. Frances St., Appleton, who had his driving license suspended for 60 days for operating from Czechoslovakia, France, over the center line of a street April 25.

Also, Wayne Joas, 804 Melissa St., Menasha, who had his driver's license suspended for 60 days after being arrested April 28 for speeding. Joas was involved in an accident on Racine Street at the time of the citation.

Masonic Lodge To Confer Degree

MENASHA — John A. Bryan, Master, F and AM, will confer a trial, Carol Teitzke, Kathy Haase, meeting on Monday at the Menasha Masonic Temple. This will be preceded by a 6 p.m. dinner.

Winners of the Hattie F. Miner Scholarships at Menasha High School are Roger Herman, left, and Wayne Bass. The scholarships total $2,000 each, granted at the rate of $500 per year. They are the 31st and 32nd students to receive the grants under terms of the will of the late Hattie Miner. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Preparing to Bake a batch of muffins, Julie Harder, route 2, Neenah, compares notes with her mother, Mrs. Wilbur Harder, who is a 4-H foods leader with 11 girls enrolled in the project. Mrs. Harder also has been an active member of the Clayton Center and Beaver Valley Homemakers Clubs for 21 years. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Award Contracts For Expansion of Twin City Savings

Start Work May 18, Expect Completion Next February

NEENAH — A Neenah construction firm, Lauer Brothers, has been awarded the contract for the general construction of the remodeling project of the Twin City Savings and Loan Association, Neenah.

The project is scheduled to begin about May 18, according to an announcement by the association's president, I. W. Andersen Sr. The building is located at 108-110 E. Wisconsin Ave., in downtown Neenah.

Bid Awards

Other successful bidders for the project include A. H. Angermeyer Plumbing and Heating, Neenah, plumbing; E. J. Rippl Plumbing and Heating, Menasha, heating, ventilating and air conditioning; Boehm Electric Service, Neenah, electrical work; F. Rosenberg Elevator Co., Milwaukee, elevator and electric lift; Elmer Kranzsch Inc., Appleton, painting; and Chadwick Manufacturing Co., Coleman, counters and teller equipment.

The remodeling will result in an entirely new face on Wisconsin Avenue, Andersen said, including a cantilevered canopy extending over the sidewalk. The facade of the building will be indented from the normal building lines on the street.

Facilities

The new facility will have a two story lobby adjoining a one-story portion containing 12 tellers' windows. Accommodations will also be provided for a receptionist and courtesy desks for customers. Other facilities on the ground floor will include the accounting department, two walk-in windows with access to a parking area and a drive-up window. In addition, night depositories will be provided.

Immediately to the left of the entrance inside will be a self-operated elevator to accommodate customers who wish to use the second floor facilities, socording to Andersen. These facilities will include the home financing department and other types of lending.

The second floor will also contain five executive offices, glass-enclosed, the board of directors' room and the president's office. A stairway from the front lobby will also provide access to the second floor.

Vault

The present basement will be remodeled to provide an employees lounge, kitchenette and toilet facilities. The basement will also contain the main vault which will be large enough to permit auditors to work inside, if necessary, the association's president said. An electric lift will carry necessary files to the second floor.

The heating, air conditioning, incinerating and emergency power plant will be located in a penthouse on the roof of the building.

Materials to be used in the project will be concrete, brick, marble and steel.

The completion date for the project is expected to be Feb. 1, 1965.

Boettcher & Ginnow, Inc., Neenah, drew up the plans for the remodeling, working with the association's building committee. The committee is composed of association directors D. W. Bergstrom, chairman, and Robert W. Hafemeister and J. D. Schmeirein.

Correction

MENASHA — A report of a four-car accident, in the Twin City News Record, Friday, stated a car driven by Herman Zeichert, 1 Main St., Menasha, struck a car driven by Lawrence J. Lenoble, route 1, Appleton. The story should have stated that Zeichert's auto was pushed into the Lenoble car by a third auto.

A Digital Computer prepared by James Angerer, pictured above, won an award in the Neenah Junior High School science exhibit attended by more than 2,000 persons this week. James is a seventh grade student. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Signs of Spring were apparent in Menasha Thursday as the first hordes of lake flies swarmed into the city. They completely covered the Army Reserve Center building on Third Street as shown above and forced personnel there to move autos and other vehicles away from the area else they become coated with the bothersome insects. ## Light Tornadoes

Weather Dances 'Twist' And Socks the Area

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Mother Nature danced the twist in the Fox Cities area Friday night.

She was the life of the big "blast" which weaved a pattern of destruction.

It was far from being a party.

Tornadoes touched down in Winnebago and Waupaca Counties, sweeping up buildings in their wake.

And for the second time in the same number of nights, Appleton was pounded by the big wind and huge hailstones, but damage was "run of the mill".

Neenah, soaked and socked by wind and rain Thursday night, was hardest hit by a twister, one of several reported in the state.

A small twister, it's path was short but destructive, turned the Fox Point Shopping Center into an open house. There was heavy damage; no injuries.

The wind and rain which has spanked the Fox Cities for several days is par for the course for this time of the year.

It is tornado time in Wisconsin and we can expect periodic big blasts.

Although severe weather warnings were sounded by the U. S. Weather Bureau Friday eve, the Fox Cities area was not designated as a potential tornado target.

There has been nothing recently in the way of twisters compared with those which battered the Green Lake County community of Berlin several years ago, snuffing out lives with it.

In case you're interested — and you should be — tornadoes are comprised of violent, destructive, whirling wind accompanied by a funnel-shaped cloud that progresses in a narrow path, often for many miles over land.

Water Spouts

Its counterpart over water is a water spout, some of which were spotted skimming Lake Michigan Friday night from Green Bay to Milwaukee. The spouts never reached land.

While tornadoes occur in many parts of the world, they are the most frequent, unwanted visitors in the Central Mississippi Valley.

The big T's are associated with a fall in barometric pressure so rapid that wooden structures and other objects are often lifted and hurled open by the air confined in them.

They say the southwest corner of your basement is a good place to shelter should the tornado warning flag be up.

Area Lucky?

The Fox Cities area was actually lucky.

About the time the baby twisters were acting up here, roaring tornadoes swooped out of the skies and pounced on several Michigan communities, killing many and maiming scores of others.

A full-fledged twister can flatten a building like a match box.

Dark, heavy skies continued hung over the Fox Cities again today as damage reports continued to pour in from isolated spots throughout the area.

A consolation: Yards and countryside have been outfit- ted in a splendor of greenery.

Fund Shortage Hits Forestry Planning

Conservation Commission Grants Money for Wilderness Area Work

The pinch in state forestry division funds, complicated by failure of Wisconsin voters to approve increased revenues in an April referendum, fell into the lap of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission here Friday.

With obvious reluctance, the commission advanced $60,000 in fish and game funds to forestry for development deemed necessary at the Yellowstone Wildlife area in Lafayette County. Most of the money is needed to develop and expand camping and picnic facilities at the popular recreational center.

Commissioner Charles Smith of Wausau predicted the forestry budget will be short by $500,000 next year. He advised Chief Forester John Beale to prepare for cutbacks in the division which is charged with forest fire protection, reforestation and management of state parks and state forests.

Beale agreed to prepare division recommendations for the commission's finance committee containing cuts in personnel and operational outlays that will conform with curtailed anticipated income.

Funds Endangered
Regarding Yellowstone's peculiar status, Conservation Director Les Voigt said the development originated with the aid of Pittman-Robinson funds as a wildlife area. Its popularity with visitors and overnight campers has changed its nature somewhat. Voigt said the federal funds invested at Yellowstone may become forfeit if the area is transferred to the parks division.

Music Teacher Clinic Planned For Appleton

Boston Clarinetist To Conduct Event Next Monday

Rosario Mazzeo, bass clarinetist and personnel manager with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a clinic for public and parochial school music teachers from northeastern Wisconsin Monday in the Heid Music Co. recital hall.

About 200 teachers and law-

rence Conservatory of Music professors are expected to attend the clinic, which will start at 4 p.m.

Mazzeo, a native of New England, has been a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1933, a bass clarinetist since 1939 and the orchestra's personnel manager since 1942. He studied clarinet with Gaston Hamelin and Gustave Langenus, and also plays the bass horn.

Special Parts Written

Many composers, including Hindemith, Piston, Schuman and Harris, have written solo parts especially for him.

Mazzeo has been on the faculty of Berkshire Music Center, Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., since its founding in 1940. He is chairman of the woodwind department of the New England Conservatory, Boston, and is a private consultant on repertoire to musicians. He has lectured at many major universities, wrote "A Brief Survey of Chamber Music" and specialized in coaching chamber music groups.

He invented the Mazzeo System Clarinet, used by many orchestras and school systems. Mazzeo also is treasurer and director of the Boston Symphony Orchestra Pension Institution.

Apostolate Director To Address Holy Name Society and Guests

KAUKAUNA — The Rev. Donald Burkart, director of the Appleton Apostolate, will be guest speaker at a breakfast meeting of the St. Mary Holy Name Society following the 7 a.m. Sunday mass.

Wives and mothers are to accompany men to the Holy Communion mass and will be guests for the breakfast.

The former Angell Service Station, on Green Bay Road immediately west of Fox Point Shopping Center. Neenah, was demolished in the Friday evening windstorm. Concrete blocks from the building were strewn across the Center's parking lot, with several eight-inch blocks ending up against some of the Center's stores, a block away. The owner of the building, Wally Angell, said he figured the front doors of the station blew in and the wind entered and lifted off the roof. (Post-Crescent Photo)

State 'Chilly' to Organizing East-Central Commission

Group Would Not Have Federal Sanction, Appleton Meeting Told

BY TOM RICHARDS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A proposed East Central Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission cannot organize under the State Department of Resource Development, Walter Johnson, deputy state planning director, told a meeting in Appleton Friday.

Johnson was target of a barrage of questions about regional planning at the meeting chaired by Sheboygan Mayor Emil Muuss in city hall.

Muuss has been instrumental in attempting to organize the new planning unit.

Officials from Outagamie, Winnebago, Brown, Manitowoc, Calumet, Kewaunee, Door and Fond du Lac Counties, and municipalities within those counties attended.

Johnson told them the area would not qualify, primarily because Winnebago and Outagamie Counties are already part of the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission.

"The state is not interested in doing all the planning," he said. "In fact, we promote local planning whenever possible — mostly municipal and county planning."

However, he added there is a "real danger of duplicating efforts, conflicting efforts and duplication of expenses" in overlapping districts.

But, Johnson said, it might be possible for the lakeshore counties to organize under section 66.30 of the state statutes, under which the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission is organized.

That section of law says one governmental agency may combine with another, and the combination may, with the approval of lawmakers of both, do the same things one can do.

Johnson said the Fox Valley commission has done an "exemplary job," but is not recognized as a "regional" planning unit by the federal government.

He also said he had "serious doubts" Brown County should be a part of another planning organization for fear of "complicating the situation."

Brown County, which has been active in planning, is in the process of determining its aims, in an application for a federal grant, Johnson said, and his "doubts" would not be eased until these were clearly drawn.

There were suggestions that a less formal organization than a regional planning commission might serve to coordinate efforts of the various counties.

One official said the Fox Valley Mayors Association might be put to this purpose, but the proposal drew neither support nor opposition.

Johnson said state law provides the governor shall decide on a planning region according to the homogeneity.

Manitowoc Mayor Walter Koepke, who was instrumental in establishing the Manitowoc County Planning Department, accused the state of trying to dictate to the counties.

However, Johnson said in some states regions are told into which planning district they fall, "but in Wisconsin the decision should be instituted by local initiative."

Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River Commission, also suggested the lake counties form an organization similar in structure to the Fox Valley Commission.

But, he added, "Don't upset and complicate an already functioning commission. There is no need to kid ourselves. We can't have two regional planning commissions in the same area."

"I don't think you would find this conducive to good regional planning."

Myron Lotta, Green Bay, speaking for Green Bay, said while Brown County would cooperate in planning elsewhere, "there are many programs and projects we are undertaking in which others might not wish to share."

Muuss called for suggestions for a time, place and topic for a fourth "exploratory" meeting for the proposed commission.

There were none, and the meeting was adjourned.

Minister Talks In Appleton to Bible Teachers

Madison Preacher Addresses Trainees At Bethel Banquet

The Rev. Harley A. Swiggum, pastor of Bethel Lutheran Church, Madison, and author of the worldwide Bethel Bible Study program, was the guest speaker at a banquet for Bethel Bible Study teacher trainees from area churches Thursday.

Trinity Lutheran Church, Appleton, was host for the banquet. Sixty-three trainees who have almost completed their year of the two-year training program attended. The first year of the program deals with the Old Testament.

The Rev. Mr. Swiggum emphasized five points in his talk to the teachers: 1. Look upon yourselves as key people in the parish for religious education; 2. Nothing worthwhile is obtained without a struggle; 3. Consider periods of disillusionment as normal in the study; 4. Use fragments of time for study; and 5. Depend upon the Holy Spirit for help and guidance.

Participating Churches
Participating churches with teachers at the banquet were Trinity and First English Lutheran, Appleton; Christus Lutheran, Clintonville; Our Saviour Lutheran, Neenah; Trinity Lutheran, Stevens Point, and First Lutheran, Manitowoc.

The Rev. J. B. Kindem was host pastor. Kenneth E. Nyquist led the group singing after the meal. Mrs. Evelyn Warming sang "That Sweet Story of Old" as a solo, with Mrs. Harold Adams as pianist. The Trinity Bethel trainees presented a skit.

Trinity members who are trainees are Mrs. Harley O. Barney, Mrs. Arnold Baumgartner, Mrs. John Brann, Leonard Bubolz, Mrs. V. K. Derscheid, Mrs. Walter Cover, Mrs. Joseph Doerfler, Mrs. H. H. Hamel, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Haas, Mrs. I. B. Kindem, Miss Christine Larsen, Mrs. Richard Lundgren, Dr. James P. Mohr, Mrs. Kenneth Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nyquist and Richard Paulsen.

Youth Injured During Fight; Second Boy Referred to Aid Unit

One Appleton youth was injured and another referred to the Youth Aid Bureau as a result of a fight at Roosevelt School at 3 p.m. Friday.

Edward W. Nass, 1903 N. Charlotte St., was treated at Appleton Memorial Hospital for minor injuries. Appleton police were called by school officials to stop the fight.

A 16-year-old student claimed Nass had tried to run him over with his motor scooter during the winter, and he retaliated by forcing the fight. The youth was arrested by city police.

Strike By 3,000 Averted; Pay Hike, More Insurance; Improved Pension Plan Adopted

MENASHA — A strike has been averted at several plants of the Marathon Division of the Papermakers and Paperworkers.

Negotiations between the unions and management broke off two weeks ago.

Both unions voted to seek strike sanction against Marathon if no agreement could be reached.

Effective for a two-year period, the new labor agreement provides for increased company contribution to the insurance program, an improved pension plan, an eighth paid holiday and a general pay increase.

Agreement on 1964 contract terms was reached here late Friday, capping marathon negotiations between representatives of the company and two unions — the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, and the United American Can Co., and a union-management agreement reached affecting 3,000 workers here at Neenah and several other communities.

The agreement ends the threat of what could have been the first strike against Marathon ever called by the Eastern Wisconsin locals.

In a joint statement issued after the two-day bargaining session adjourned, union and management officials said all contract details have been worked out and the agreement now will be recommended for ratification by members of the nine locals involved.

Plants and mills affected by the joint contract are located at Ashland, Menasha, Neenah, Rothschild, Wausau, Wis., and Menominee, Mich.

Principals who negotiated the new contract included Pinten, Schofield, vice president and regional director for the Papermakers and Paperworkers; W. S. Meyer, Menasha, and John Shank, Sartell, Minn., international representatives for the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers; and Carl R. Geisler, vice president of Marathon's administrative services division. James Despins, Green Bay, was the federal mediator.

Luther League Visits Milwaukee

The Luther League of First English Lutheran Church are visiting the Wellington Park Luther League of Milwaukee this weekend. The First English Luther League had been hosts to this same league in January.

The Luther Leaguers planned to arrive in Milwaukee about 2:30 p.m. today. Activities include a visit to the zoo in the afternoon and a hay ride in the evening.

Sunday morning all will attend Sunday school and church together, and then eat the noon meal together in the Wellington Park Lutheran Church. The First English Luther Leaguers plan to return to Appleton later Sunday afternoon.

Holy Name Men to Fete Mothers, Wives

LITTLE CHUTE — Wives and mothers of the Holy Name Society of St. John Catholic Church will accompany men to the 7:30 a.m. Sunday mass after which they will be honored at a breakfast in the grade school gym.

Lee Thompson, Oshkosh, will deliver a mother's day talk.

Vandalism Reported

Four windows and a plate glass door were broken at the Mead Park shelter building by vandals this week.

Recreation Director E. W. Grover said the damage would amount to $65 to $75. The city has no glass breakage insurance coverage.

The vandalism was reported to police.
